

FRIDAY'S STORM LEFT DESOLATION IN WAKE

REPORTS FROM ATLANTIC COAST SHOW LOSS OF LIFE WILL BE HEAVY.

REPORT MANY WRECKS

Vessels Aground, Wrecked and All on Board Lost is Government Report This Afternoon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Jan. 4.—At least three deaths and approximately five hundred thousand dollars worth of property damage resulted from last night's eighty mile gale which swept New York and vicinity. Today the wind had dropped to sixty miles an hour, but the mercury had crawled down to 22 and pedestrians suffered keenly. The deaths reported were: Mrs. Mary Kline, Brooklyn, died of injuries after having been blown under a street car. Belated returns of the damage done by the storm of yesterday and last night reaching the telegraph companies here today revealed that a clean sweep of the wires had been made from Jacksonville to Maine and the storm was the most severe of recent years.

Perhaps the greatest damage was done at East Buffalo where the tail of the storm leveled telegraph poles for a mile. A sixty mile gale raged today along the northern Atlantic seaboard, but the wire trouble, it was reported, was slight, compared with that of yesterday. The most serious instance today was the break near Philadelphia of more than sixty through wires between New York and Washington.

Robert Walker, a painter, fatally injured in a fall from a scaffold in Brooklyn, was identified man blown into Newark Bay from a central railroad of New Jersey train; a three masted schooner aground and flying signals of distress near Egg Harbor, N. J., last night drifted off near Beach Haven not far from Atlantic City today and life savers have lost sight of her.

The big Hamburg-American liner Amerika, outward bound around today off Tompkinsville, Station Island. She hopes to float with the rising tide late today.

Newport News, Jan. 4.—The steamer Julia Luchenbach from Port Tampa to Baltimore was sunk off Tangier Gas buoy in Chesapeake Bay yesterday having been in collision with the British steamer "Indrakula." The Luchenbach was struck in the bow. Two men were lost, including Captain Gilbert and his wife. Eight men, including the second mate of the Luchenbach, were taken from the rigging of the sunken ship after they had clung for life for six hours in the gale which was sweeping the bay. Others in the rigging with them, rumbled by cold, dropped off one by one and drowned.

With the exception of Captain Gilbert, First Officer Hunt and one of the engineers, the crew of the Julia Luchenbach was composed of foreigners. They were signed here December 12th just prior to the sailing of the steamer for Port Tampa, laden with phosphate rock from Baltimore.

Everybody else on board is believed to have been lost.

The British steamer Indrakula which collided with the Luchenbach, is reported to be beached about three miles from the scene of the collision with a twisted bow.

The revenue cutter Pache started today from Annapolis for the scene of the wreck of the Luchenbach, forty miles away.

Twenty-three Drown.

Newport News, Va., Jan. 4.—Twenty three persons are reported to have perished in the sinking of the steamer "Indrakula" which collided with the Luchenbach in Chesapeake Bay last night. The master, his wife and twenty-one of the crew, it is said, went down with the ship.

The accident was witnessed by but one man, a night watchman, who declares he saw three persons in the automobile, but more may have been drowned in the closed vehicle.

FIRST DREADNAUGHT IN HUMBLE STATION

Vessel Which Caused Revolution in Naval Construction Assigned to Subordinate Squadron.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, December, 29.—How fleeting is the glory of the modern fighting ship is illustrated in the case of the British battleship Dreadnought, the building of which as a result of the report of the British naval attaches who accompanied Admiral Togo's fleet in the first naval battles in the Gulf of Pechi against the Pacific fleet of Russia, caused a revolution in battleship construction.

This once proud vessel is now considered so far out of date that she is being removed from the First Battle Squadron and assigned to the Fourth Battle Squadron, which is based on Gibraltar. The Dreadnought has been in commission less than six years, and while not considered obsolete is more completely outclassed by the latest ships than were the pre-Dreadnoughts displaced by her when she was first built.

Three weeks ago the battleship King George V. was commissioned. She has a broadside of no less than 14,000 pounds. This gives her a superiority of 106 per cent. over the Dreadnought, which was only 28 per cent. better than the last pre-Dreadnought. The new armored cruisers are 50 per cent. more powerful than the Dreadnought. No British armored ship is reckoned effective today that has been launched over 18 years.

At the battle of Trafalgar the 27 British ships averaged 27 years from the date of launching. The Victory herself was 50 years old.

ROCKEFELLER'S PLACE OF HIDING UNKNOWN

Counsel Accepted Service of Subpoena But Whereabouts of Oil Magnate Remain a Mystery.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Jan. 4.—Although Wm. Rockefeller through his counsel has accepted service of the subpoena requiring him to testify before the Pujol committee, his whereabouts today is as much a matter of speculation as it has been at any time during the forty-five days employees of the house of representatives have been trying to reach him.

Allow Matter to Rest.
Washington, Jan. 4.—When the committee met informally and considered the question of Mr. Rockefeller's pleading ill-health as an excuse for not answering the subpoena, Chairman Pujol announced that the matter would be allowed to rest until January 13, when Mr. Rockefeller's subpoena provides for an appearance. If the oil magnate is not present at that time the committee will endeavor to find out why. The cost of the search for Mr. Rockefeller will amount to something more than $3,000.

Left for Cuba?
Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 4.—William Rockefeller, wanted as a witness before the Pujol money trust investigating committee, is believed to have left Jacksonville last night enroute to Cuba. There were several members in the party.

PARISIAN PLEASURE PLACES LOSE MANY FAMILIAR FIGURES

Turks, Greeks, Bulgarians, and Servians Who Frequent Cafes Have Left for Balkan War.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Jan. 4.—The pleasure places of Paris are less gay this winter owing to the absence of many familiar figures who have been called away to the war in the Balkans.

In normal times the boulevard cafes number among their regular patrons many Turks, Greeks, Bulgarians and Servians, the majority of whom have resided here for years. Representatives of the armies of all four nations are to be found as a rule among the students at the great military college at Saint Cyr, and there are several instances recorded of fellow students there finding themselves face to face in opposing armies on the battlefield.

The Egyptian prince Aziz was one of the best known habitués of the Opera quarter. Prince Arsene Karageorgievitch, a younger brother of King Peter of Serbia, who was severely wounded while leading the Servians at Monastir, lived here for some years, until the death of King Alexander opened the way for the return of the sons of "Black George" to their country. Many quaint stories are told of his adventures in the city in the days of his poverty. To his many intimates he was known as "Kara," and these delight to talk of the bravery he has displayed in the war.

The garrison of Vincennes possesses a sergeant who is probably the most fashionable non-commissioned officer in the service.

When he arrived to join the regiment of cuirassiers to which he was appointed, he found that the stables were not altogether to his liking, and had alterations made at his own expense. He has since had a room in his bedroom and hung the refectory walls with pictures. When the regiment is on the march the young man's automobile follows in the rear, and at each halt a footman brings game and champagne to the sergeant and his friends, who needless to say, are numerous.

His case presents one of the curious anomalies of "national service." He is immensely rich, and his father's stable was "placed" in the Grand Prix this year.

Degas, who has suddenly become famous to the larger public at the age of 69, through the sale of one of his paintings for $85,000, is very much of a hermit.

Falling eyesight has prevented him from painting for some years now, and his door is rarely open to strangers. Art discussions do not interest him.

"No, no," he once said, "I cannot talk painting; no one does who is a real painter. It is discussed in omnibuses, in cafes, in drawing rooms. But not here. Painting is like a murdered man." After the sale in which his picture, "Les Danseuses a la Barre," for which he originally received $100,000, went to Xenyly, on the outskirts of Paris. From the window of a friend's house he looked in astonishment at the people's adventures. "In my time," he said, "there was nothing here."

As a rule he stays in Montmartre, and knows nothing of the newer parts of the city. Though he is the greatest living French painter, he has never been decorated. His hobby is collecting the pictures of his great-grandfather, and the great academic artist he treasures, which practice is an example of his contradictions, for he is one of the founders of the opposite school. Nor is he kind to contemporaries, labeling one "The Little Steam Wagon," and another "The Ragpicker's Raphael."

Some residents of the aristocratic Faubourg quarter and other Royalist partisans who do not like the republic, are showing their opposition to the government by issuing stamps—like the French feminists and the anti-alcoholic league—inscribed with more or less scurrilous sentiments. The government, however, does not give them much chance to have political effects on the citizens. The stamps decorated with the names of the deceased, it had become a common custom for Royalists to adorn their letters, especially to soldiers in the army, with seditious labels. Sometimes the Duke of Orleans figured on the stamp; some times an unflattering caricature of President Fallieres, or an ugly-looking female to represent the republic. The propaganda had become so active that the government decided to take action.

The biology of the bathypelagic animals, or creatures who live in the lowest depths of the ocean, is little known and mostly hypothetical.

In a recent communication to the Academy of Sciences, M. Bource, who accompanies all the oceanographic expeditions of the Prince of Monaco, has given the results of his observations on the migrations of these animals.

He has observed that many species, notably the fish whose normal life is during the day at a depth varying from 4,000 to 6,000 yards, rise during the night to a short distance from the surface.

Similar migrations had already been observed among the smaller species known as plankton, but had never been noticed in the case of creatures of a larger order. It is probable that all the bathypelagic species do not obey this law of vertical ascension, fish with luminous organs seem to follow it with the greatest exactness.

BALKAN ALLIES ARE READY TO FIGHT IF IT IS NEEDED NOW

State That Only Hope Turkey Has of Securing Its Demands is to Seek Aid of Powers.

London, Jan. 4.—The Ottoman delegates to the peace conference have absolutely made up their minds not to surrender the fortress of Adrianople, North Islands, in the Aegean sea according to a statement made today.

An explicit and categorical declaration to this effect was prepared for submission at today's session of the peace conference in St. James Palace. The Turks, however, may make some further concessions in the province of Adrianople.

The delegates of Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Serbia met at half past three this afternoon to consider their attitude in view of the probable Turkish reply to their demand for a decision on the question of Adrianople.

The ambassadors of Austria-Hungary, France, Germany, Italy and Russia resumed their "conversations" at the British foreign office and began considering the questions involved in the crisis which has been reached in the peace negotiations.

It is believed to be the intention of Turkey to yield on the question of the island of Crete and to cede to the Balkan allies all her rights there.

Should the Turks unexpectedly renounce their claim to the fortress of Adrianople it is understood that the Balkan allies are ready to moderate their original claims in regard to the future frontier of the Turkish province of Thrace.

They would be prepared to make it run from Enos on the Aegean Sea along the Maritza river to Midia on the Black Sea instead of from Rostovo on the sea of Marmora to Midia, as was at first proposed by them.

The attitude of the Balkan allies during today's session of the conference was forebodingly declared by Dr. S. Radeff, the chief of the Bulgarian delegation who stated:

"We expect that the Turks will be unable to give us acceptable conditions. The negotiations will then be broken off. We have an army which can continue the war."

Dr. Caneff added a phrase which possibly indicates that a "way out of the deadlock may be found." He said: "If the Turks wish to appeal to the European powers we cannot prevent them from doing so."

The Balkan peace conference which was to have met again this afternoon was postponed until Monday, at the request of the Balkan allies, who are waiting for the government at Constantinople to make a probable outcome of the expected intervention in the negotiations will be mediation by the European powers.

The Turkish government, it is thought, would be able to meet the public hostility in Turkey to the giving up of the fortress of Adrianople, with the plea that it had been forced by the powers to yield.

ENGLISH JOURNALIST REFUSED ADMISSION TO ENTER COUNTRY

Newspaper Man Convicted of Libelling King Seeks to Be Allowed to Enter United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 4.—Is libelling a crime involving moral turpitude? Such is the question absorbing the attention of the United States immigration authorities. The English journalist, who today received the appeal for admission to the United States of Edward M. Lyell, the English journalist, threatened with deportation from New York because he was convicted in England of criminal libel of King George.

Counsel for Lyell maintains that his offense was political and in no sense criminal. Lyell served a year in prison for writing a story that the King of England had contracted a morganatic marriage.

You Live Better Than a King

Macaulay once said that men or women of average means in these modern days live better than kings of old. Many of the things that are necessities today were luxuries two hundred years ago. Many of the things you wear, eat, drink, and have in your home were then unknown.

New things are offered you almost every day by inventive genius, luxuries of yesterday come within the reach of all, and the good things of life become more numerous. All these things must be brought to your attention, and advertising is the means of getting your attention and interest.

Get the most out of life. Supply your wants to the fullest. Read the advertisements in THE GAZETTE closely and constantly every day and keep posted on the new things just out, the better things to buy, and the opportunities to economize. Then you will surely live better than a king of old.

DETECTIVES SEARCH FOR AUTO BANDITS

Chicago Police Seeking to Arrest Men Who Made Rich Haul Last Night.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Fifty detectives searched today for the four automobile bandits who invaded the downtown district last night after robbing a North Side jewelry store of $1,200 worth of diamonds, fought two revolver battles with the police, and caused terror by firing into crowds of snappers on one of the city's principal streets.

Two men taken in custody in East Chicago on suspicion of being implicated in last night's robbery and shooting, were taken to the detective bureau and questioned by Captain Kaplan today. They denied all knowledge of the hold-ups and shooting.

One of the suspects had a revolver with two empty chambers. They gave their names as Thomas Brady, 32 years old, and Frank O'Brien, 37 years old.

A round-up of suspicious characters in all parts of the city resulted in the arrest of thirty men. Detailed descriptions of the four bandits furnished by policeman Frederick Strickman was telephoned to every police station in the city.

CASTRO TO ATTEMPT TO ENTER COUNTRY

Ex-President of Venezuela Cancels Passage and Will Fight in Courts For Admission to U. S.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 4.—The steamer Amerika sailed today for Hamburg without having aboard Cipriano Castro, ex-president of Venezuela, who announced at Ellis Island several days ago that he would abandon his desire to enter the United States and return to Europe voluntarily. Castro remains under detention at Ellis Island awaiting argument, January 6, on the writ of habeas corpus granted in his behalf yesterday by Judge Holt in the federal district court.

It cost Gen. Castro $400 to cancel his passage to Europe. He had engaged two suites on the Amerika.

Castro has abandoned his idea of returning to Europe without entering the country and now plans to go to the highest court if necessary for his fight for entrance.

CHARGES THEFT OF DOGS FOR VIOLATION WORK

Madison, Jan. 4.—Humane Agent J. W. Quinn, charged today that an organized gang of dog stealers are at work in this city for the purpose of securing vivisection subjects for the university medical laboratory. Several valuable canines have disappeared and Dr. Quinn visited the medical school where he found several dogs awaiting their turn to go under the knife.

Officials of the university medical school deny Humane Officer Quinn's charges that dogs are bought for vivisection purposes and declare that cruelty is not practiced.

LEADS NOT GUILTY TO PASSING FORGED CHECKS

Madison, Jan. 4.—Carl Miller, alias August Brinkman, pleaded not guilty before Federal Judge Sanborn to passing forged checks on two Madison business men. He was recently released from Port Leavenworth after serving three terms for stealing money order blanks in Minnesota which he cashed on Madison men.

STATE SOLONS MEET NEXT TUESDAY NOON, ADJOURN THURSDAY

Legislature Will Remain in Session Next Week Only Long Enough to Organize and Hear McGovern's Message.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 4.—The legislature will remain in session only two days next week. Wednesday will be devoted to organization, and on Thursday morning Governor McGovern will read his message to both houses in joint convention. This is the procedure which has been determined upon by legislative managers. It is expected that both houses will adjourn next Thursday noon until the following Tuesday morning.

Caucuses on Tuesday.
Both houses of the legislature convene at 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday. The senate will be called to order by the Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris of La Crosse. The assembly will be presided over by the chief clerk of the last assembly, C. E. Shaffer of Madison. Assembly and senate caucuses of all parties will be held Tuesday evening. At the senate caucuses the committee membership for the senate will be determined upon. In the assembly caucuses the candidates of each party for chief clerk and sergeant-at-arms will be nominated. The main contest in the senate caucuses will be over the office of sergeant-at-arms. Charles Leitch of New Lisbon and former assemblyman Thomas A. Roycraft of Chippewa Falls will be the candidates. Leitch has promises from a number of hold-over senators to practically insure his election. Fred M. Nye will undoubtedly be elected chief clerk of the senate without opposition.

The assembly caucuses next Tuesday evening of the republican promises to be spirited. The candidates for speaker are L. L. Johnson, Ray Nye, Merlin Hull, Dr. S. C. Goff and Thomas Mahon. In the interval following the visit of Senator La Follette here there seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of the selection of an assemblyman Johnson as speaker. W. S. Irvine of Greenwood will probably be chosen as sergeant-at-arms of the assembly. C. E. Shaffer will undoubtedly be elected chief clerk of the assembly without opposition.

Election of Speaker.
Upon the convening of both houses Tuesday noon the call of the legislature will be read in the senate and assembly by the chief clerk of the last legislature. Chief Clerk Shaffer will preside over the assembly until a speaker has been elected. He will read the call, read the certified list of members-elect, so that they can be sworn into office by Chief Justice J. B. Winslow, and see to it that all members of the assembly sign the official roll. At this point he will announce that the election of a speaker will be in order. After the speaker has been elected he turns the gavel over to him, and then the assembly proceeds to elect its chief clerk and sergeant-at-arms.

The same procedure will be followed out in the senate. After the preliminary organization each house will notify the other that it is organized and ready to transact business. A committee will then be selected composed of members of each house to notify the governor of the organization and ask him if he has any message which he wishes to communicate to them.

It is understood here that both houses will adjourn after organizing on Wednesday until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when Governor McGovern will read his message to the joint assembly. Both houses are then expected to adjourn until the following Tuesday to allow the speaker of the assembly sufficient time to make out his committee appointments.

Many "Job Hunters."
Practically all the members of the legislature will be here by Tuesday morning. There is an unusual number of "job hunters" seeking positions in the legislature. The service roll of eligibles is unusually large. There seems to be considerable discontent over the passage of a law at the last session which permits an employee of the last legislature to be reappointed without a civil service examination. It is pointed out that a number of these employees recently took the civil service examination but were not successful in standing as some who had never held the positions. There seems to be a sentiment here to make an entire new list of appointments to the different positions.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Labor leaders in many cities were busy today planning to furnish bail for the thirty-two union officials convicted of a dynamite conspiracy and now in the federal prison at Leavenworth.

RUSHING LEGISLATIVE WORK OF THE SESSION

BOTH HOUSES OF CONGRESS WORKING TO COMPLETE WORK OF SHORT SESSION SOON.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 4.—With final adjournment of the 62nd congress exactly two months away, the house today confronted a jammed calendar, and a list of supply bills that promised weary days and sleepless nights for the legislators up to the final moment of the session.

Only a single appropriation bill, the legislative, executive, and judicial supply measure has been passed by the house. The Indian appropriation bill is now under consideration and should be completed early next week. The big appropriation measures which involve a vast amount of detail likely to cause long discussion are still to come.

The post office appropriation bill has been reported from the committee and is awaiting action by the house. The military affairs committee has practically completed the army bill which is expected to develop considerable friction. Besides there remains the naval appropriation bill, with its prospects for a fight on the battleship program, the military academy bill, the agricultural appropriation bill, the voluminous sundry civil bill and the two so-called "pork barrel" bills for river and harbor improvement and public buildings.

With these prospects tied up for the next two months, representatives Fitzgerald chairman of the appropriations committee declared today that the house would be soon forced to call night sessions for the consideration of appropriation bills.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Chairman Clapp of the committee investigating campaign funds asked the senate today to enlarge the presidential committee to include the presidential campaign of 1912. He said that his committee be empowered to delve into the last presidential fight the probability was that "We will take some testimony." Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania, one of the members of the committee objected to immediate consideration of the amendment and it went over until next week.

Senators Bacon, Overman and Crane today were appointed senate members of the joint congressional committee to arrange for the inauguration of President-elect Wilson. The house members are Rucker, of Missouri; Garrett, of Tennessee and McKinley of Illinois.

An effort to report some form of trust legislation before March 4, is to be made by the senate committee on interstate commerce.

DR. HYDE MAY NOT HAVE SECOND TRIAL

Scheduled to Begin at Kansas City Monday—Doctor Is Out on Bail.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 4.—The third trial of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, convicted after a sensational trial, of the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, a millionaire philanthropist, is scheduled to begin in the criminal court here Monday, but it is thought likely the case may not be called. District Attorney Virgil Cookling, who conducted the successful prosecution of Dr. Hyde at the first trial, died a short time ago and many persons are of the opinion that the physician never will be called upon to stand trial a second time.

The Hyde case is one of the most famous in the criminal annals of Missouri. In March, 1910, Dr. Hyde was indicted for the alleged murder of Colonel Swope, and the latter's nephew, Chrisman Swope. Another indictment charged him with manslaughter in connection with the death of James M. Hinton, a cousin of Col. Swope. Dr. Hyde's wife was a niece of Col. Swope, and the motive for the alleged wholesale murders was to remove all who stood between her and the Swope fortune. The physician was tried and convicted for the murder of Colonel Swope. Later the Missouri supreme court set aside the sentence of life imprisonment and ordered a new trial. Since that time Dr. Hyde has been at liberty on bail.

DR. MAUD WILLIAMS TO GIVE LECTURES IN CITY NEXT WEEK

Nurse Who Was Here Last Year Will Give Series of Talks on "Morals and Health."

Dr. Maud Williams of Milwaukee, who spent several weeks in Janesville in December, 1911, under the auspices of the state Anti-Tuberculosis association, will be in this city next week to conduct a series of meetings at which she will lecture on the subject of "Morals and Health." An announcement to this effect was made today by Dr. M. A. Cunningham, chairman of the executive committee of the local anti-tuberculosis society, under whose auspices she will appear.

Dr. Williams will be in Janesville three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A tentative program has been made out as follows:

Thursday afternoon, 2:30 to 3:30, she will talk to the high school girls; from 3:30 to 4:30 she will talk to the high school boys, and Thursday evening she will give an address to the mothers.

On Friday, from 3:30 to 4:30, she will talk to a third division of the high school children, and Friday evening she will give an address to the general public. Saturday afternoon there will be a mothers' meeting and in the evening an address will be given to the young ladies of the city.

It is announced that this program is subject to change at the discretion of Dr. Williams. The time and place of holding the various meetings will be announced later.

Those who remember Dr. Williams' work in Janesville a year ago will be pleased to meet her again. She is a woman of recognized ability and her work toward conserving the public health has won for her an enviable reputation.

BELIEVE THAT DEATH CAME FROM ACCIDENT

Brothers of Miss Minnie Bennett, Scout Suicide Theory—Body Sent Home Today.

That the death of Miss Minnie Bennett, the Woodford, Wis., school teacher, who was asphyxiated in a room at the St. Charles Hotel yesterday was purely accidental is the firm belief of her two brothers, James and George Bennett, who came to this city to take charge of her remains. They say that there is no reason to believe that their sister intended to take her own life. All her relatives live at Chippewa Falls and she had gone home to spend the holidays with them on December 28. During that time she appeared to be in excellent spirits. She had written her brother to meet her at Gratiot yesterday and accompany her to the village where she taught school. The brothers say that no one in their family was accustomed to gas lighting and they believe that she inadvertently turned the valve of the fixture open after extinguishing the light. As she had been riding all night in a stage, she would sleep heavily and not notice the escaping gas.

A closer examination of the contents of the dead woman's purse brought to light a tiny card case in which was found a ten dollar bill. This fact also tends to discredit the suicide theory. Yesterday morning all the money that was found in her possession was twenty-nine cents, not enough to pay her fare to Gratiot, where she was to meet her brother.

Miss Bennett was thirty-four years old and has been engaged in teaching for the last ten years. She was devoted to her work and had expressed herself well pleased with her present situation.

Chief of Police Appleby, with the two brothers of Miss Bennett, visited the St. Charles Hotel this morning to interview those who had waited upon the unfortunate woman and inform themselves more fully of the circumstances of her death. As the result of more complete information Chief Appleby is now of the opinion that Miss Bennett met her death as the result of accident.

The remains were conveyed to her home at Chippewa Falls today on the Northwestern train leaving at 11:40 a. m. and funeral services will be held there. George Bennett, a brother residing at that place, arrived here this morning. James, the brother residing at Wyota, arrived late yesterday afternoon. Both accompanied the remains home.

PRESENT NEW PLAY ON SUNDAY EVENING

"Our Cousin Fritz" by Frank Winniger Will Be Offered for the First Time.

Sunday night for the first time on any stage, Frank Winniger and his own company will offer for your approval, a comedy drama in three acts, written by himself. It is on the order of a satirical travesty, showing plainly how with many people, money is everything. It tells a pretty heart story of two artists, a painter and a musician. Their struggle until one is left a fortune. They then change their own identity for that of their chum, the artist becoming the musician and the musician the artist. Many amusing situations arise from this fact. It is a pretty story well told and gives evidence of becoming a successful play.

CARRIERS EQUIPPED FOR PARCELS POST

Rural Mail Carriers Have Been Provided With Maps, Guides and Parcels Post Stamps.

All carriers on the rural free delivery routes out of Janesville have been equipped with parcels post maps, guide books and stamps, and patrons of the various routes may now secure from the carriers who deliver the mail to them, practically the same service as is given the city people at the post office. The parcels post service is intended to be of as much, if not greater use to them than the city people, and they may send out parcels by securing the stamps from their carriers, without having to take the parcels to the postoffice. Thus far the rural patrons have not begun to use the new system to any great extent, but after it has been in operation longer, it is expected a great increase will be shown in the future. The equipment for the rural carriers arrived only a day or so ago.

In spite of the warnings issued, Postmaster Valentine states that a number of people send parcels to the postoffice daily bearing only the ordinary stamps, and it is necessary to hold the package for postage. Only the parcels post stamps may be used on fourth-class matter and each parcel must bear the return address of the sender.

No break packages have yet been received, most of the parcels post being common articles of merchandise, clothing, blankets and other goods, sent out by residents of the city and by some of the business houses.

ISSUES STATEMENT ON HEALTH RULES

City Health Officer Sets Forth Regulations Regarding Contagious Diseases.

As this is the time of year when contagious diseases are most prevalent, and the danger of epidemic is great oftentimes, the strictest precautions are observed, Dr. M. A. Cunningham, city health officer, has issued a statement regarding the rules laid down by the state board of health governing action in these afflictions. The statement is as follows:

The state board of health has passed laws whereby they require local health officers to quarantine or placard residences where anyone is afflicted with any of the following diseases: Diphtheria, (membranous croup), scarlet fever, typhoid fever, whooping cough, chicken pox, small pox, measles, tuberculosis, meningitis, infantile paralysis, and erysipelas. Physicians, and where no physician is employed, the parent or guardian, are required by law to report above diseases within 24 hours from the time of first knowledge of disease.

It is the duty of a neighbor, or any other person, knowing of a person having any of the foregoing diseases, and which has not been quarantined, to report the same to health officer. The penalty for not doing so is a fine of from five to twenty-five dollars.

When people affected with chicken pox, for instance have recovered they will present themselves to the health officer and receive a card to re-enter school and have contagious card removed.

No child or other person living where any of the above diseases exists, with the exception of typhoid fever, shall attend school, Sunday school, theatres or any other public place. This does not prevent parents or others who work to earn a living from doing so.

M. A. CUNNINGHAM,
Health Officer.

FLOODS AND WASHOUTS FEARED IN WASHINGTON

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Seattle, Jan. 4.—Rain is falling today in the mountains, melting the great mass of snow which fell recently. Unless there is a change to cold weather soon there will be slides in the higher altitudes and floods and washouts in the lowlands, which will tie up railway traffic. The weather bureau gives no encouragement.

STRIKE OF RAILWAY WORKERS EXPENSIVE

Cost Northern Shipping Trades of England Over $5,000,000—Trouble Came During Holiday Rush.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, Jan. 4.—The strike of the workers on the Northeastern Railway caused by the action of the company in reducing an engine driver after he had been convicted of drunkenness, and which lasted less than a week, cost the Northern shipping trades over $5,000,000.

The trouble came at a time when there was an extraordinary rush of trade before the holidays, which was interrupted by an unusual and pressing demand for coal by Russia and other European powers, who were putting in stocks against the possibility of war. It was not only the shipping trades that lost heavily, however, for the miners and men in collateral trades lost nearly a week's work as the company could not accept freight, while the railway men themselves were mulcted in fines which it will take them some weeks to pay.

This has left a wound and many of the men, dissatisfied with the action of their committee in signing the company's terms, wished a general strike ordered. Better counsels prevailed, however, the men who had gone on strike against the advice of the union officials, on this occasion listening to them. There is unrest among the men on most of the railways of the country. They complain that they are persecuted, that any man found to be active in trade unionism is unfairly treated by the companies, and on the least excuse is either gotten rid of or reduced.

The companies deny this, but the men believe it and many of the sectional strikes, such as that on the Northeastern, are caused more by the general dissatisfaction than by the special occurrence that takes the men out. The men on the Northeastern were not greatly concerned about the reduction of Driver Knox, but they had a general grievance against the company and took the first opportunity of venting it. It is the same with the coal miners.

The men in Wales, who made the bitterest fight in the last big strike, are now complaining that the award made on the conclusion of the strike is not being fairly administered and threaten that unless their grievances are remedied they will declare another general strike. It is likely that they would, were it not for the fact that their funds were depleted by the last struggle.

ATTEMPT AT A JAIL DELIVERY DEFEATED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 4.—With a bottle of nitroglycerin in one hand and a pistol in the other, Harvey Lee, charged with burglary, held a squad of officers at bay at the county jail at Marion, six miles from here, for nearly an hour early today. Then he turned loose with his pistol and Officer Charles Gillin of Cedar Rapids fell dead and Detective John Cook, was injured. The fight between Lee and the others followed immediately after an attempt in the jail delivery in which two explosions occurred in rapid succession. Outside friends had endeavored to set Lee at liberty. They cut all means of communication so that only one telephone wire was available after the explosions.

Sheriff Loftus was awakened by an explosion in the rear of the jail. Before he could dress, a second explosion occurred. He then discovered that the telephone wires had been cut, but finally got into communication with the police department here. A squad of six officers was sent to the scene.

After Gillin was killed the remaining officers pursued Lee and overpowered him. The other prisoners in the jail were demoralized, but none had attempted to escape. They were brought to Cedar Rapids for safe keeping. Sheriffs and deputies are searching for the men who attempted to liberate Lee. The jail was only slightly damaged.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT AT WHITELAW REID FUNERAL

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, Jan. 4.—President Taft and Ex-President Roosevelt were under the same roof today for the first time since it was announced that both would seek the presidential nomination at Chicago. The last time they were together was on October 15, 1911 at the celebration of the jubilee of Cardinal Gibbons in Baltimore. Today they sat just across the nave from each other at the funeral of Whitelaw Reid.

Although during the service today they were only 50 feet apart they did not meet.

Rourke.
Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Rourke, and Louis Rourke, her son, were held at St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock this morning. The Rev. Father Mahoney celebrated mass. Those who acted as pall bearers were P. Muligin, Hugh Joyce, William Dulin, Frank Sutherland, Harry Handy and Walter Dulin. The funeral was largely attended.

Southerners who are playing in the big leagues apparently are the worst hold-outs this winter. Ty Cobb started the ball rolling by demanding a $9,000 a year contract. Then Joe Jackson, who hails from South Carolina, followed suit by asking $1,000 a year more than the Cleveland management seems willing to pay him. Then came Bud McGee, the Nashville boy, with a demand for a very substantial raise at the hands of Boston. Now Derrell Pratt, the St. Louis Browns' good young infielder, thinks he's worth $1,000 a season more than has been offered him. Of the entire tribe all but Cobb graduated from the Southern league.

The failure of the "Mack School" of managers in the American league last season has opened up the old question as to whether the baseball players make the manager or the manager the team. The 1912 season seemed to be that the manager makes the team.

The most conspicuous failure among the Mack followers was Harry Davis, manager of the Cleveland Naps. He had a good team, but failed miserably. Clark Griffith had a team at Washington which didn't look very good, but made a great record.

Next season we shall see what a first rate manager can do. Frank Chance takes the New York Highlanders at a time when they seem hopeless. If he turns out a winner it will be pretty conclusive evidence that the manager is the first thing to have, the players the second. Joe Tinker volunteers the information that Hans Wagner is the greatest shortstop in the world, that Ed Walsh is the greatest pitcher in the world, and that Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are the greatest players in the world. Joe's thought concerning Walsh may be a trifle preposterous. It will be recalled that Ed was the main cog in the machine that took much money from the Cubs in two recent post-season series.

George Duncan, one of the Great Britain's most prominent professional golfers, will visit America again next fall. He was here two years ago and played in twenty or more matches, the most of which he won. He is a dashing player, taking scarcely any time to address the ball. He walks up to the ball and makes his shots in rapid fire order, and is particularly quick on the greens.

Joe Cantillon, who is one of the big bugs in the American Association, is father of a scheme which would prohibit the sale of any player or players to the big leagues. "The American Association is a big and powerful organization," said Joe recently. "It can pay its ball players big salaries, almost as big, in fact, as the average player in the big leagues. Why, then, when we get a player of real ability—a star—should we put him on the market and let some major league get the returns and results for something we developed?"

BOWLING LEAGUE IS TO OPEN ON MONDAY

Monday, January 6th marks the opening of the bowling season for 1913. This year the various teams have been designed by the names of various well known birds. The Orioles, Blue Jays, Robins, Swallows, and Larks, and Canaries are found but a careful search of the list fails to reveal a team called the Sparrows, although it has been suggested that this name may be taken for the tall enders before the season is far advanced. The following is the schedule for the various games which closes next April.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The New York Yankees have signed second baseman "Dodger" Finley and Pitcher Patsy Martin, two clever Brooklyn semi-professionals. Connie Mack has signed Pitcher Robert McGraw, of the Pueblo (Colo.) High School team, and intends to take him in tow before the season of 1913 is over.

Sir James Callahan, manager of the White Sox, says that sitting on the bench is not to his liking, and that he will play himself in left again next year.

After being out of the game for a couple of years, Orvie Overall, formerly of the Cubs, wants to come back and pitch for any big league team except the Cubs.

That $40,000 salary for five years service as a teacher of baseball in France didn't look good to Jean Dubois, he will stick with the Detroit Tigers.

In Pitcher Martina, secured from the Beaumont (Texas) club, the Boston Red Sox figure they have something genuine. It's a nice pleasant name to repeat, anyway.

Howard Fahy, the Dartmouth player signed by the Philadelphia Athletics when the college season closed last June, has been turned over to the Los Angeles club, of the Pacific Coast league.

"Chick" O'Connor, who played first base for the Quincy (Illinois) team last season, was ordained in the Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago, recently, and is now the Rev. Father Edward O'Connor.

When Walter Regh, the Pittsburgh youngsters, stepped to the plate in a game last season, Umpire Kient asked him how to spell his name. Walter stared at the umpire and told him to whistle it.

Manager Johnny Evers, of the Cubs, will have at least ten players to release after the opening of next season. Each club is allowed to carry twenty-five men after the first of May and John now has thirty-five under contract.

WITH THE BOXERS. Johnny Coulon's physician has ordered him to do no boxing for two months.

Ex-champion Tommy Burns who will enter the wrestling game, has agreed to wrestle Zbyszko in Calgary, Feb. 3.

Kid Williams and Eddie Campi, the sensational California bantam, will box in Vernon, California, either Feb. 8 or 11.

In explaining his break with his manager, Aleck McLean, Matty Baldwin says that McLean did not get him enough bouts.

The lid on the boxing game in Milwaukee is expected to be tilted between January 15 and 25, when Promoter Mulken will stage some important bouts.

Robbed of Toxic Qualities. A process has been discovered by which tea and coffee are robbed of their toxic qualities without interfering with the flavor.

SKIING THE MOST FASCINATING WINTER SPORT FOR DWELLERS OF COLD CLIMES.

What is the most thrilling winter sport? Ask the question anywhere in the east or the south and you will hear a million voices shout, "Coasting, tobogganing, skating, ice-skating, racing horses on ice, skate sailing." But in Minnesota, in northern Wisconsin, in the Rocky Mountains, in Norway, Sweden, northern France, Switzerland, Prussia, Denmark and Belgium millions more will exclaim, "Skiing." Skiing is generally regarded as an infant sport in America, but that is not the case in all parts of the country. Stoughton, Wisconsin, had a ski tournament in 1884 at which Elie Tveit made a leap of eighty-four feet. The town held another in 1889. Torjus Hennestvedt, who won the first tournament ever held in Europe, also won the meet here. He is now a resident of Eau Claire, Wisconsin. Since that time ski tournaments have been held so often in America that a record of the jumps over 125 feet long would resemble an edition of the Congressional Record. The long jumps did not start though until 1909 when Ole Feiring made 144 feet on the big skiff at Duluth, Minn. Oscar Gunderson covered 138 feet off the steel trestle at Chippewa Falls on the same day, but in 1911 the record went up another notch. Sigurd Hanson of Chippewa Falls, competing against the best professionals in America, on the steel trestle in Stoughton, Wisconsin, jumped 141 feet and stood. Hardly had the newspapers stopped showing pictures of the slider in the air than there came from Ironwood, Minn., the report of a 152 foot leap by Anders Haugen and one of 154 feet by Barney Reiley, competing as an amateur. In the same contest James Presthus leaped 156 feet, but fell as did Reiley also.

Europe saw her first ski tournament in 1879 on the Ruseby hill. Torjus Hennestvedt of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, at that time a resident of Norway, won the meet. The world's record was made on February 26, 1910, when Sigurd Brevik leaped 193 feet on the Fram hill at Brumunddal, Elverum, Norway.

Thirty United States ski clubs have organized the National Ski Association of America with clubs at Stoughton, Milwaukee, Beloit, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Superior, Hudson, Arcadia, Wis.; Chicago and Rockford, Ill.; Virginia, Fergus Falls, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn.; Ironwood and Ishpeming, Mich. The association has a membership of 1,300 members or one-tenth that of the Norwegian association in Norway. Tournaments are held in a circle of cities in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Illinois, at which professionals, amateurs and youths compete for valuable prizes.

Barney Reiley, a bow-legged Irishman from Coleraine, Minn., won the amateur skiing championship of America in 1909 and held the title for three successive years by defeating all competitors in the annual national meet. Francis Kempe won the national tournament at Chippewa Falls in 1911 and for the first time in the history of skiing in America placed the professional championship in the hands of a native born German-American. Because there are no professional events in Europe, Kempe could also tack on to his title the new one, "world's professional champion." Lars Haugen won the title back for the Norwegians in the meet at Cary, Ill., in 1912.

What probably is one of the most daring feats on skis is performed by John Rudd of Duluth and Axel Hendrickson of Chicago. Both of whom guarantee to make a 65-foot leap and a complete somersault on skis for $50 a performance on any skiff in America. Melvin Hendrickson, the 44-year-old Eau Claire, Wis., lad, leaped 125 feet in the national meet at Chippewa Falls, Wis., in 1911, outdistancing both the amateur and professional champion, and winning his event with more points than the other two.

The great possibilities of covering ground on skis are shown by the time made in the annual ten-mile cross-country run, which is one of the regular events of the national ski tournament. The race was made over hill and valley at Chippewa Falls in 1911 in the remarkable time of 45 minutes and 30 seconds.

the Chicago referee. Langdon and Cunningham starred for Janesville, the former securing four field goals besides playing a good floor game.

The entire Chicago team was made up of star players and have not met a defeat this year. Their two forwards were sure shots and both good dribblers, and their center, Teeney, a former player of the Lane Technical school, proved himself a star. The Cardinals hope to defeat this team in a return game. Their next game will be on the 10th or 11th with the Conus club of Beloit.

PROPHET WITHOUT HONOR IN NATIVE TOWN? WOODY WILSON SAYS "NOT SO!"

Birthplace of Woodrow Wilson at Staunton, Va.

If President-elect Woodrow Wilson ever seriously believed the old saying that "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," he is of a different opinion now, since his visit to his birthplace—Staunton, Va.—last week. The people of Staunton did everything they could to honor the president-elect, and gave him the most rousing reception of his whole life. The picture shows the old home in which he slept while on his recent visit to Staunton.

Jan. 4, 1913.—The storm in the east moved northeastward and is now passing down the St. Lawrence valley. It has been attended by gales, and heavy snow and rain in the east. The highest wind velocity reported was 88 miles at New York yesterday. Snow has continued falling in most of the northern states. The fall was light in most places, but Miles City, Montana, reports 13 inches. The barometer is low in the southwest, and produce fair weather tonight and Sunday. It will be colder tonight and Sunday, probably with a temperature of zero or slightly lower in the morning.

FOR luncheon or the evening meal there is nothing so appetizing, so restful, so altogether satisfying as a table beverage as BUOB'S BEER. Then, too, a glass or two with a couple of sandwiches induces sweet sleep and promise of a clear head in the morning. Buob's Beer is a mighty good every day all 'round drink.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The fool is he who fumes and frets
And spends his life in constant worry.
Who always dreads what ill may come,
And fears it's coming in a hurry;
Who looks on the black side of things,
And spends his weary days repining.
Who sadly views the clouds of life,
And never sees the silver lining.

The wise man is the one who gets
The maximum of fun in living;
Who takes each pleasure as it comes,
And gets its good without misgiving.
Enjoying all things as he may,
Dread possibilities forgetting,
He daily gets the best of life,
And lets the fool folks do the fretting.

—Somerville Journal.

The two classes of people portrayed in this little poem, are common to humanity, and many representatives of both classes are found in every community.

The people who worry are not all fools, but many of them are foolish, because the anticipated troubles of life are so much more imaginary than real, that only time is necessary to dispel them.

It is as natural for some people to worry as it is to breathe, and they say they can't help it because they were born that way, and so heredity is held accountable, but it is possible to overcome inherited weakness, along other lines, and the disease of worry can also be conquered.

The opening of a new year always brings to the surface a lot of facts concerning profit and loss, which are more or less startling, and where balances are on the wrong side of the ledger, the business man finds but little trouble in joining the worry class, but soon discovers that worry never helps to remedy a weakness. Then he gets down to brass tacks, and looking the situation fairly in the face, adopts a policy that will change results.

The responsibility of conducting business usually rests with the husband and father, while the care and management of the home devolves upon the wife and mother, but the successful outcome of the average business depends in large measure upon the thrift and economy of the silent partner who presides over the household.

When incomes are fixed by salary, the question of how much can be expended, is easily determined, but where resources are flexible, the inclination is to anticipate profits, and this often leads to disastrous results. The demands of society were never more stringent than they are today, and ambition to keep pace with the procession sometimes cripples a business, and occasions worry which might be avoided with more intelligent management, on the part of the silent partner.

Where incomes are fixed, this same sort of ambition often keeps the bread-winner's nose on the grindstone, and he strikes the first of the year without a dollar in his pockets and a liberal number of overdue bills staring him in the face.

Worries incident to this class of experiences are legitimate, but useless unless they result in reform. The average family lives on an income of $800 a year, and financial burdens do not annoy. What others are obliged to do, as a matter of necessity, may be duplicated as a matter of choice, if occasion demands.

A preacher, not a thousand miles away, supports a family of a wife and three children—one an invalid—on a salary of $700. He may be worried occasionally, to make both ends meet, but he doesn't complain.

But the real worries of life are not foolish and the people who are troubled with them are not demented. It is the little things, which don't amount to anything, which constantly nag and annoy, that cause a lot of useless trouble.

The mother worries about the children from the time they are old enough to toddle, until they toddle out of the home and commence life on their own account, and then she worries about the grandchildren as they come along, because they are not spanked before retiring, as she used to spank her children.

If the good wife has no children of her own, she worries about the neighbors' offspring, and is free in telling what she would do, if they belonged to her.

When she invites company, every dish for dinner is seasoned with a worry, and she presides at the head of the table, with flushed face, and entertains the guests with an apology for everything from the roast to the dessert. Ever see such women? The husband usually dies young or gets a divorce, for life, with such environments, is hardly worth the gamble.

The roadway of life is full of bridges that many of us attempt to cross before we get to them. Have you ever noticed, when riding through the country at night, how much smoother the road seems, than by daylight? The rough places are not visible and you pass over them and are gone before you know it.

That's life. One third of it is spent in sleep and blessed unconsciousness, and worry should be a stranger to this period. Another third is spent in work, when we have no time to worry. The other third is for rest and recreation, and if necessary we can afford to close our eyes and enjoy it.

An old gentleman was bemoaning his fate, a time ago, because his wife, the partner of a life time, was an invalid and would soon depart and leave him alone. She went, and in a few months the old man was married again, and as chipper as a chipmunk. The children called him an old fool, and probably he was, but not of the worry brand.

The people who worry the most about themselves, are the people who know just enough about anatomy and physiology to diagnose their own condition and this they do so persistently that they enjoy poor health most of the time.

A little attack of gout, from an overloaded stomach, is a sure symptom of Bright's disease, and a rapid pulse from indigestion, indicates heart disease in aggravated form, while a little gas in the bowels, chasing around for an outlet, means good bye to the appendix.

It is this class of over-informed people would keep their troubles to themselves, it wouldn't be so bad, and if they didn't live to ripe old age, as a rule, there might be occasion for sympathy.

When the good Lord planned the delicate mechanism of the body, He planned it for service, and placed the limit of endurance at three score years and ten, there is no reason why the average life should not live out allotted time when worry is eliminated.

The mind is more subject to disease than the body, and the microbe which disturbs it most is worry. This fact the Christian Science church discovered early in its history, and the healing art applied, seeks to relieve the mind, and success often crowns effort.

There is nothing miraculous about it (neither is it enveloped in mystery). The healing of a diseased mind gives nature a chance to heal the body, in many cases, and confidence has much to do with the initial work. The smile of a physician, when he enters the sick room, and says to the patient, "We'll have you out in a day or two," is worth more than medicine, as a restorative.

The people who get the most out of life are the optimistic people who live by the day by the way, and that is really the only way to live. It is well to look ahead and plan for the future, but the future is mighty uncertain, and the changing years are not always kind.

The little family circle, in that sacred precinct we are privileged to call "home," is not a perpetual circle. It is ours to enjoy today; what it may be tomorrow time alone can tell.

It is an old saying that "there are no friends like the old friends," but there comes a time, later on in the pilgrimage, when the old friends are scattered. The time to appreciate them is while they are with us.

Many old people are trudging along a lonely pathway, who had planned to spend the years of the sunset in rest and enjoyment. The active years have been filled with work and worry, but just ahead was the play ground, vain hopes that are seldom realized. The close companion rests in the Silent City, the children are scattered, the friends of other years have departed, and with vitality weakened, the outlook is anything but joyous.

Today is ours, with all the choice environments. Let us fill it with hope and good cheer, and every tomorrow will be today, until the last day fades away in the golden sunset.

FOR THE MOMENT

When Father Was a Boy.
This world was certainly a frost
When father was a boy.
Just think of all the fun they lost—
They had no use for joy.
They were a very gentle lot
And never did what they should not
To make their honored parents hot,
When father was a boy.

They had no air guns fer to shoot
When father was a boy.
They had no bugles fer to toot,
Or any other toy.
And shortly after they were born
They had to hike out in the moru
And hoe the taters and the corn—
When father was a boy.

They never shunk away from school
When father was a boy.
Off to the good old swimmin' pool,
Or words of slang employ.
Then when, up a tree they'd climb
To carve their initials, 'twas a crime,
They must have had a hot old time,
When father was a boy.

They never got a single cent
When father was a boy.
They didn't know what money meant
And it didn't e'er annoy.
The youth that flourished in that day
If they could never get away
And go a-fishin' so they say,
When father was a boy.

They never had an earthly chance,
When father was a boy.
To own more than one pair of pants.
When father was a boy.
They shined their shoes with axle grease,
Their trousers never knew a crease,
They had one hickory shirt apiece,
When father was a boy.

All they cared to do was work,
When father was a boy.
They were never known to shirk,
When father was a boy.
They drilled from morn till dewy eve—
That is, of course, if you believe
The tales of what they did achieve—
When father was a boy.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
Mrs. William Tibbitts is nitting a crazy quilt for her uncle, who is in the insane asylum. She is one of the best nitters in this man's town.

Cale Prouty, our jeweler and watchmaker, has got a job regulating the works in Hod Peter's thrashing machine. Cale says he can't sleep at night unless he hears a clock ticking. I should think he could get along just as well by listening to the bed tick.

Mrs. Hank Tumms was chewing slippery elm the other day when her lower jaw slipped out of joint. Neighbors advocate having something done about it, but Hank says there ain't no particular hurry. Mrs. Anson Frisby is takin' their arts and crafts lessons from down to the city, and at present is poundin' a forty-dollar brooch out of one of Anse's brass suspender buttons. Miss Little Bibbins is making an up-to-date peek-a-boob shirtwaist outen the hammock she aid on the side porch last summer.

Miss Anson Frisby has got a rubber-band trap at this writing, but we ain't seen her catch anything in it yet. Colonel Eri brought some chestnuts off a dago down to the city the other day. It seems as though he ought to patronize home industries and get his chestnuts here at home by taking the Clarion. A new piano tuner has blowed into our midst and taken a job stretching wire for the telephone company. Miss Euphemia Mudge, our only Vassar graduate, went over to West Hickeyville yesterday to attend the rah rah game. Uncle Ezra Harkins had chicken for dinner yesterday, and Constable Ezra Hand is working on the case with only a slight clew.

A move is on to pave Main street. Some folks favor cedar blocks and others want asphalt, while still others who are high toned want to find some new kind of pavement no town in this vicinity has got. Most of the delinquent subscribers of this town will find a new kind all right when they get to the place that is paved with good intentions.

Musings of a Pessimist.
When a woman gets hold of an automobile in a crowded street, it is time for pedestrians to take to the weeds.

The old home cooking always seemed good because you were always hungry.
It would serve every sour old bachelor right if he had to marry a sour old maid and vice versa.

There are too many young kids running automobiles and not enough of them working for a living.
For all around knowledge, nobody has got anything on the hotel clerk in a town of 1200.

The new woman will never get very far without the old man.

SCRIPTURE
II Kings 4:1-6.

Now there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophet unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the Lord; and thou hast taken him my two sons to be bondmen.

And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee? Tell me what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thine handmaid hath not anything in the house, save a pot of oil.

Then he said, Go, borrow seven vessels abroad of all thy neighbors, even empty vessels; borrow not a few.

And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

So she went from him, and shut the door upon her and upon her sons, who brought the vessels to her; and she poured out.

Heart to Heart

Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

YOUTH IN AGE.

The other day Andrew D. White on celebrating his eightieth birthday announced that he had taken up the investigation of criminology and expected to make, possibly, some important contributions to the subject before he is ninety.

When a man can take up a new study at eighty he has the spirit of youth.

Many men at Andrew D. White's age, who have done but a fraction of the good he has accomplished, would be willing to rest on their laurels.

This man, it must be remembered, practically founded a great university, of which he was for many years president, was a distinguished ambassador to an important foreign nation and has been for years a publicist and leader of thought.

Yet he has no intention of stopping. He sees an opportunity of further good by studying the treatment of the outcast and the criminal.

The world owes much to his young old men, those who keep the heart of youth when they have the wisdom of age.

The trouble with some old men is fossilization. They are unwilling to keep abreast of progress. They talk about the good old times and become a clog against making the present times better. They are not receptive to new ideas.

It was Byron who left off that retrospective view of mind when he said: "The good old times! All times when old are good."

The inspiring outlook is forward, not backward. Even though we may not understand all the currents of our age, this day is the best in the world's history. Tomorrow will be better.

The man who keeps a young spirit in an old body and who looks to the sunrise rather than to the sunset is about the finest and most inspiring spectacle seen in our human world.

This age is full of such men—also of such women. There was William Bryant Gladstone, leading a new crusade at eighty. There was Julia Ward Howe, keenly alive to the reforms of the present and the future up to her death at ninety.

It is a matter of whether the spirit or the body dominates. The spirit is ever young. If that leads us we are also young.

Keep the heart youthful by living in present day joy, present day progress, present day work.

In our thought we should hold eternal youth.

SHOWS LINEAGE OF FITTEST AMERICANS

David Starr Jordan.

President David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, is putting the finishing touches on a book of eugenics devoted to showing that many of the greatest Americans are descendants of Isabella De Vernandors, daughter of Hugh Magnus, the English crusader of the twelfth century.

Jordan says Rockefeller and J. Pierpont Morgan are descendants of this able woman.

Fine Oriental Rugs

A Show For Art Lovers

Do you know that the great painters often get their inspirations from these rugs?

from the soft, warm colors that come straight from the heart; for the rugs are made by poor, suffering, ignorant women who can neither read nor write. Is is anything short of genius when people under such conditions conceive and work out color combinations so daring that a trained artist shrinks at the mere mention — yet applauds the finished work! The rugs now displayed here are perhaps the most beautiful we have had. We have taken pains to get the rare and unusual and there are more quaint, queer, unique designs here than you will find in many places. Won't you see them?

ALLEGED FORGER IS HELD IN NEW MEXICO

R. W. Norton Wanted for Passing Spurious Checks at Clinton and Elkhorn, Arrested at Albuquerque, N. M.

District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie received a telegram late yesterday from the Chief of Police of Albuquerque, New Mexico, that R. W. Norton had been arrested there and was being held charged with passing forged checks on the Citizens' bank at Clinton, and on banks at Elkhorn and Darion in Walworth county. Norton formerly lived near Delavan.

The complaint, which has been made out by H. A. Moehlebach of the Clinton bank, alleges that Norton passed a check for the sum of $19 on Jan. 20, 1912, signed Ed. Pyer, and endorsed by George Williams. The checks on the Walworth county banks were for about the same amount, six or seven checks being passed in all. The Bankers' association have had the matter in hand and traced Norton to New Mexico through officers of the Burns detective agency. Mr. Dunwiddie stated that the Bankers' association might stand the expense of bringing Norton back to Rock county for trial. Mr. Moehlebach was in Chicago today to learn what action could be taken in the matter. The necessary papers for bringing Norton to this county were made out by the district attorney today.

POULTRYMEN MEET ON MONDAY NIGHT

Further Arrangements for Fifth Annual Show Will be Made by Local Association.

Members of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association will hold a meeting at W. H. Ashcraft's store on West Milwaukee street next Monday evening for the purpose of making further arrangements for the fifth annual poultry show which will be held at the auditorium January 13 to 15. Several committees will be appointed and other details of the show will be discussed. Edward Amerphol, who has charge of the decorations and plans of the floor will work some new ideas for the coming show. Among the attractions will be an artificial pond in the center of the floor in which there will be various kinds of water fowl. The decorations will be novel and attractive.

Among the features of the show will be a coop of Chinese silkies, a rare and unusual variety of birds, which will be brought here especially as an attraction. These silkies have extremely white fine feathers which resemble down. Their skin is black and their combs are purple. They are a little larger than the Leghorns and have a good reputation for laying.

There will also be a pen of black silkies. These birds have no feathers at all but are covered with fine down. Both of these varieties are very rare and will be interesting to poultrymen and non-poultrymen alike.

The committee in charge of the entries report that an unusual number of entries have been received from all over the state and from Illinois. Present indications are that the show will be a record-breaker as to the number of birds exhibited.

WANTS MAYOR'S HELP TO OBTAIN A WIFE

Portland, Oregon, Man Hears That There is an Over-supply of Widows in Janesville—Promised Aid.

A matrimonial bureau as a phase of municipal activity, Janesville is suggested by the letter of a Portland, Oregon, man received by Mayor James A. Fathens this morning. The letter contains a newspaper clipping bearing a Janesville despatch dated December 21, stating that there are twenty widows residing in the city within a radius of four blocks, and reads as follows:

"To the Mayor of Janesville, Wis.: Dear Sir: I see that there is an over-supply of widows in Janesville. Now if you will refer them to me I will lessen the number and I can find one that would like a good man and live out here. Please don't make my name public."

The writer gives his address as 1749 Fisk street, University Park, Portland, Oregon. Mayor Fathens has written him stating that he will do all in his power to aid him and that if he is so fortunate to get him a wife it will certainly be a good one.

LOCAL DEBATING TEAMS PLAN PRACTICE CONTEST

The debating teams are almost ready for their tussle with each other in a practice bout to give them experience both in delivering their speeches and to aid them in rebuttal. Both teams are confident of victory, and the first debate will depend a lot on their showing in the interstate contests. Owing to the evenness of the question and of the teams, it is impossible to pick the best team. The members of the negative team have mastered their speeches, but the affirmative team members have not as yet received their addresses. They are expecting them some time this week.

WOMAN ADVENTURER GUEST AT STATION

Miss Nellie Hayes Rides Into Town on "Head End" of Train—Detained Over Night by Police.

Coming from nowhere and evidently not bound anywhere in particular, a woman adventurer giving her name as Nellie Hayes was taken into custody by the Janesville police last night soon after she had arrived in the city riding the "head end" of the Northwestern passenger train that arrived from Chicago at 8:45 o'clock. She evidently intended to continue her journey but her presence was discovered just before the train arrived here and when it reached the depot she was asked to alight.

After being obliged to leave the train Miss Hayes walked up through the railway yards. She was noticed by one of the patrolmen who placed her under arrest soon afterwards and took her to the police station for the night. At first she refused to answer any questions put to her but later surprised the station officers with her rapidity and spirit of her conversation.

She claims to have traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and from the Canadian to the Mexican border. Her mother, she said, lived in Kentucky, and was under the impression that she was living with a cousin in Montana. She was twenty-three years old, had been married and was the mother of two children but left her family because of her husband's cruel treatment. It seems that she is in the habit of traveling with wild west shows, for she stated that she would like to start out with one from Denver in the spring. At the present time she was on the way to Minneapolis.

One of the station officers asked if she would let them take her picture in the morning. This suggestion was received with an expression of indignance.

"Who do you think I am?" she said. "You think I am the woman who was arrested in Milwaukee. I know here."

Nellie Hayes was sent on her way by the police this morning who provided her with a ticket so that she could travel in comfort and security.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR HIGH SCHOOL FIVE

Janesville High School Basketball Team Will Make Fine Appearance in Their First Game.

The high school basketball team will open their season next week dressed in new uniforms. These were purchased last week by Coach Curtis and arrived yesterday. The suits include shirts, pants, and stockings. The shirts and stockings are of the best grade wool and are navy blue with a six-inch white stripe in the center. On the front of the shirts and in the white stripe are J. H. S. monograms, which are of a dark brown and are well padded. In all the suits are very neat, and the team should show up well when they appear on the floor next week for their first game of the season. Practice will commence Monday night as usual, and the team will be selected as soon as possible. Captain Falter is pleased at the way his men are showing up, and is now considering a place in the finals. The Alumni game is the likely one for next week.

Edgerton is looked for, but such a game is not a sure thing. The fact that the entire Lakota team are high school alumni, may give the rooters a chance to see these two teams pitted against each other next Friday night.

APRECIATES STAND TAKEN BY GAZETTE

Rev. J. Willard Scott Thanks Newspaper for Attitude in Present Recall Campaign.

The average communication to the newspaper office is in the form of a kick, although now and then a ray of sunshine either by word of mouth or in the form of a pleasant expression on paper comes in, and the following from Rev. Scott is one of those which helps to make the path smoother.

Yours courteously and sincerely, REV. J. WILLARD SCOTT.

THE question of whether whisks are an asset or a liability has long played an important part in the political life of the nation. The days appear to have passed when the late Chester A. Arthur tried to set the style by blossoming forth in campaign "Best Whiskers" with a pair of side whisks which looked like a reverse view of a hedge fence, but few men in public life have had the temerity to follow his example. One of the "splendid few" is Chief Justice Hughes, former governor of New York.

Justice Hughes has a prolific crop of dark blue whisks which have never come in contact with a curling iron, yet they toss their tall branches to and fro in a natural wave. If it were not for his whisks, Mr. Hughes would be considered a plain dresser, but as it is his neatly parted foliage is viewed with suspicion by those of his colleagues who have anything on the door knob. If Justice Hughes were to suddenly shave, the front exposure of his face, there would be no way to prove his identity except by his receipt for lodge dues.

As governor of New York, Mr. Hughes overcame the handicap of his whisks and became popular with everybody except the members of the Barbers' Protective union. He was a diligent governor, and on account of not being obliged to wait around in a barber shop on Wednesday and Saturday nights for a close shave he accomplished a great deal of work. Numerous admirers have presented him with safety razors, mugs, strops, massage cream, shaving soap, and witch hazel, as a delicate intimation of the trend of popular sentiment, but he remained unshaken and unshorn. When he went to Washington, he took his whisks with him, and uses them every day in constraining the constitution.

During the recent campaign there was a loud demand for Justice Hughes to run for president on a platform calling for the full dinner pail and the full beard. But he knew what the cartoonists would do to him and his whisks, and refrained. Besides, $17,500 a year in the hand is worth more than leading a forlorn hope with the bush.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury (taken at Palm Beach, Fla.).

The series of lavish entertainments planned by Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, wife of a partner of J. Pierpont Morgan, may be brought to an end as the result of numerous letters received by Mr. and Mrs. Stotesbury, some of them going so far as to make threats against the lives of the well-known financier and his wife if they do not cease spending small fortunes on their magnificent dances and dinners.

Mrs. Stotesbury had planned to give a series of six balls that would outdo anything ever before attempted in Philadelphia. She has given two of them.

PRINCESS CECILIE WON'T KEEP HOUSE; KAISER BLAMES PRINCESS OF PLESS

Much to the horror and chagrin of Kaiser Wilhelm, Crown Princess Cecelie of Germany has signified her intention never to keep house again. The Kaiser thinks that a princess should live in a castle, but Princess Cecelie says a hotel is much better. Another little fight in the royal family seems imminent.

The Kaiser blames the Princess of Pless, who is one of the most beautiful and popular women of Germany, for the present unhappy state of affairs in his family. The Princess of Pless lives in a hotel and it was this vice thing she had to say about hotel life that moved the crown princess to determine to quit life in a castle.

Much to the horror and chagrin of Kaiser Wilhelm, Crown Princess Cecelie of Germany has signified her intention never to keep house again. The Princess of Pless lives in a hotel and it was this vice thing she had to say about hotel life that moved the crown princess to determine to quit life in a castle.

THE question of whether whisks are an asset or a liability has long played an important part in the political life of the nation. The days appear to have passed when the late Chester A. Arthur tried to set the style by blossoming forth in campaign "Best Whiskers" with a pair of side whisks which looked like a reverse view of a hedge fence, but few men in public life have had the temerity to follow his example. One of the "splendid few" is Chief Justice Hughes, former governor of New York.

Justice Hughes has a prolific crop of dark blue whisks which have never come in contact with a curling iron, yet they toss their tall branches to and fro in a natural wave. If it were not for his whisks, Mr. Hughes would be considered a plain dresser, but as it is his neatly parted foliage is viewed with suspicion by those of his colleagues who have anything on the door knob. If Justice Hughes were to suddenly shave, the front exposure of his face, there would be no way to prove his identity except by his receipt for lodge dues.

As governor of New York, Mr. Hughes overcame the handicap of his whisks and became popular with everybody except the members of the Barbers' Protective union. He was a diligent governor, and on account of not being obliged to wait around in a barber shop on Wednesday and Saturday nights for a close shave he accomplished a great deal of work. Numerous admirers have presented him with safety razors, mugs, strops, massage cream, shaving soap, and witch hazel, as a delicate intimation of the trend of popular sentiment, but he remained unshaken and unshorn. When he went to Washington, he took his whisks with him, and uses them every day in constraining the constitution.

During the recent campaign there was a loud demand for Justice Hughes to run for president on a platform calling for the full dinner pail and the full beard. But he knew what the cartoonists would do to him and his whisks, and refrained. Besides, $17,500 a year in the hand is worth more than leading a forlorn hope with the bush.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN
by Barbara Boyd

The Old-Fashioned Old Maid.

WHENEVER I am at Mrs. Godfrey's for any length of time, I feel as if I would like to get that sister of hers off by herself and administer a good shaking and a few pointed remarks," said the bright club-woman to a friend.

"You mean Miss Ingersoll?"

"Yes."

"What's she been doing?"

"She hasn't been doing anything. That's the trouble. I would like to make her brace up and do one particular thing, any way, if she did no more."

"Goodness! What is it? I am curious."

"Take a different view of herself and her value in life. She's one of those old-time women who go about with an apologetic air because they are old maids. She fusses around and tries to let on she's important. And she makes the most of every little trivial incident in order to seem to have a lot to talk about. But deep down in her heart she believes she's a failure because she wasn't able to catch a man. And she thinks everybody else looks on her as a failure for the same reason. Whereas if she'd just brace up, throw all such ideas to the winds, for the foolishness they are, and take an interest in real things, she'd be quite a charming woman."

"But you know in her day, women were looked on as failures if they didn't marry. When they were passed by, it was regarded as proof positive that they were lacking in some of the essential qualities of a wife—good looks and a good figure seemed to be the principal ones. But at any rate, something was missing was the verdict."

"Of superficial thinkers, yes."

"But there are a lot of superficial thinkers," said the other resignedly.

"You're right, I must admit," agreed the club-woman. "Just the other day, a man whom I always thought had real brains, said to me in regard to a mutual acquaintance, that he didn't see why she wasn't married, as she was quite a handsome woman. He seemed to think because she was good-looking some man would want to marry her; and that if some man wanted to marry her that was all there was to it. And he absolutely refused to entertain the thought that any woman wouldn't marry if she could, no matter what the man might be like."

"That's just it," said the other. "And that's what's the matter with Miss Ingersoll. She believes people think she never had the opportunity to marry because of some lack in herself, and it makes her creep around with that apologetic air, and live out the idea there is nothing in her."

"But she ought not to," replied the club-woman energetically. "She should not be cowed by such superficial thinking. Besides today everybody has long gone by that idea."

"How about the man you were speaking of," interrupted the other.

"Well, if they haven't, they ought to be pushed by. And every one of us ought to give a shove. And so I say she ought to brace up, let her really charming personality express itself, and live her life fully and freely; and not go stealing meekly about believing she isn't of any account."

"I am afraid she is too old to change," said the other.

"Well, at any rate, I am glad this generation isn't growing up with any such ideas to dwarf and stunt their lives. And I shouldn't wonder if some day I should take her in hand and see if I can't root them out of her."

WE MAY live without books—what is knowledge but grieving? We may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving? We may live without love—what is passion but pining? But where is the man that can live without dining?

FISH SOUPS.

Fish soup is rather an unusual dish in most American families, though for those who enjoy fish, the soup is most acceptable.

Swedish Fish Soup.—Reheat one quart of fish stock and add one onion, six potatoes, a carrot and a small bunch of parsley, all cut very fine. Simmer for half an hour, add two cupsful of veal stock, a dozen oysters and a half glass of orange juice with salt and pepper to taste. Cook until the oysters rattle, and serve.

The fish balls that come canned are delicious served in a cream soup, which may be thickened with egg or flour and seasoned with onion.

Austrian Codfish Soup.—Remove the skin and bones from two pounds of fresh codfish and chop fine. Add a carrot, an onion, a turnip, two stalks of celery and a bunch of herbs, all minced. Add a quart of water and simmer two hours, then add the juice of a lemon, salt, pepper and nutmeg to season. Press through a sieve, reheat and thicken with a tablespoonful each of butter and flour, cooked smooth and added to a pint of milk. Bring to the boiling point and pour over the yolk of an egg, well beaten.

Norwegian Fish Soup.—Reheat six cups of fish stock. This stock is the water in which the fish has been boiled. Blend together three tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour; add two cups of milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add the thickening to the boiling stock and two eggs beaten smooth with a little cold milk. Line the tureen with split Boston crackers which have been soaked in milk until soft. Pour the hot soup over and serve.

Spanish Salmon Soup.—Cook together a quart of stock, a sliced onion, a half can of salmon; rub through a sieve, add a quart of boiling milk, season with salt and pepper and minced parsley. Thicken with butter and flour and serve with whipped cream.

MRS. F. A. HEINZE NEED NOT WORRY ABOUT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Mrs. F. Augustus Heinze.

It's a safe guess that Mrs. F. Augustus Heinze is not worrying about the high cost of living. Eggs may go to ten cents each if they like and she can have two poached ones for breakfast. The meat trust may double the price of beef, but she will go serenely on her way, trusting the Chicago packers. Why should she? A New York court has just awarded her $1,000 a month alimony, and Mr. F. Augustus Heinze, copper king, will have to pay it or go to jail.

The Heinzes were married in 1904. Mrs. Heinze was originally Miss Bernice Golden, an actress. Then she was Bernice Golden Henderson, wife of a wealthy business man. Then she was Bernice Golden Henderson Heinze.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE LOW COST OF SERVICE.

THE other night we referred to a difference about the spelling of a certain word to the dictionary. Although the decree of the dictionary did not suit the majority, it was of course accepted without question. And as we laid the book and the subject aside, there came to me a realization of all that unquestioning acceptance meant. The reason that we accepted that verdict with such absolute faith was that we knew that our question had been answered by a committee of learned men who had devoted years of labor to studying that and similar problems for us. We knew that in them a corps of faithful and intelligent servants and so we gave the matter into their hands with perfect faith that it would be properly attended to.

Do you remember in your First Reader the story of the boy whose uncle promised him that he would serve him a pudding which a thousand people had helped to make? When it came time for dessert, some very simple pudding was brought out and the little boy thought he had been deceived; but before his uncle had finished telling him of the men and women who had helped to cultivate and transport the rice and spice and sugar, etc., that went into the pudding, he was convinced that he was really eating what a thousand people had helped make for him, and was as astonished and impressed as his uncle could wish.

As I laid aside the dictionary, after availing myself of the efficient service of those learned and studious men, that First Reader story came back to me and I, too, was suddenly impressed by a realization of the innumerable servants who wait on the humblest of us.

They say the cost of service is high today. In some ways it was never lower.

My dictionary is a small one, costing about $3. It will last me at least ten or fifteen years and I shall surely use it hundreds of times in that period. Does not that make the cost of service pretty low?

A man in Boston writes a letter to a friend in San Francisco; he buys a stamp and posts it. With the purchase of that two-cent stamp he buys the services not only of all the men who actually handle that letter and the bag that contains it, but also of all the firemen and engineers, the brakemen, the mail cart drivers, etc., who will help to bring it to its destination.

Think of the number of servants represented by a public library full of books. For the writing and correcting and printing of each one of these little volumes there was required the work of innumerable men, both brain-wise and hand-wise. And all of these of these are your servants.

Think of the number of men and women who become your servants when you pay five cents for a telephone call.

These are a few of our servants, but only a few. You can think of plenty more for yourself. After all it's quite a wonderful world we are living in, in this twentieth century, isn't it?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. LIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How can I clean a white beaver hat at home? (2)—What can I do to make a hair switch soft and fluffy after it has been hardened by bleaching with peroxide? (3)—How can I fill out my cheeks a little? My complexion is good and I am only 18, but my cheeks look sunken.

(4)—Am I too young to be married now? (5)—My sister is thin and very pale. She claims her bowels move only once a week. Is that the cause of her delicate condition? (6)—Is black becoming to a blond? (7)—In what color should I be trimmed? (8)—How can I prevent perspiring at a dance? (9)—I never wear anything good to dance in for that reason.

TESSIE.

(1)—Make a paste of cornmeal and gasoline (keep it away from fire of any kind). Rub this well into the hat, let it stay over night, then shake out and brush with a clean soft brush. (2)—You might try washing it in warm soapsuds made with a good white soap with a few drops of ammonia. Shake it dry. (3)—Do not try artificial aids. Make a practice of pulling out your cheeks often. Massage with any of the good cold cream on the market, being careful to wipe off all the cream afterward. (4)—The message that does the real good. Take deep breathing exercises and drink plenty of pure milk and water. (5)—No. (6)—Your sister is in bad condition. She should see a doctor. Does she eat enough fruit and fresh vegetables? It would do her good to take Epsom salts every morning before breakfast, until her bowels are moving regularly.

(6)—Yes, if her complexion is good. All black, without color, is very dashing. (7)—Wipe face and neck and under the arms with alcohol. (8)—The stores sell preparations that prevent perspiration. (9)—I am a boy of 17 and in love with a girl of the same age. I see her often, but don't make up with her.

Give me a remedy for blackheads and pimples.

BASHFUL.
My dear liddle, you're not any more in love than I am with this girl. I have no doubt she is a very nice girl, but when you are a few years older you will see other girls that seem just as nice to you. If you want to make up with her, just forget all about yourself and think of how you can make her happy.

Plenty of soap and water and frequent scrubbing are death to blackheads and pimples. Eat lots of fruit and vegetables, drink plenty of water, take a bath every day and keep your bowels in good condition.

Do you know that prize fighters never have blackheads or pimples? It's because they have to be so absolutely clean, take lots of exercise eat right, live regularly and keep good habits. If all boys would live like a prizefighter who is in training they'd keep in good health and have that clean, fit look that women admire so much in a man.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Refreshing Desserts.

COFFEE HAVARIAN CREAM.—Soak one-half box gelatin one-half hour in one-half cup cold water, add one cup boiling milk, one cup boiling coffee, one cup sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Strain, cool, then fold in one pint cream, whipped. Fill mold and chill.

ORANGE SURPRISE.—Take nice medium-sized oranges. With a sharp knife cut out from top a round piece the size of a dollar, scrape out juice, mix with finely chopped figs and raisins and refill oranges. Close with the piece cut out. Your guests will be surprised when eating the oranges. To be eaten with a spoon.

ORANGE PUDDING.—One quart sweet milk, put it in stewpan or solder and let it come to a boil. Add two tablespoonfuls cornstarch, sugar enough to sweeten, one teaspoon vanilla, three eggs (just the yolks), a little salt, three oranges (peeled and cut in little pieces). After this has boiled a few minutes pour it on oranges; stir it up so that the oranges are well mixed. Take whites of eggs, beat them stiff, put a little sugar in, put on top and place in oven to brown a little.

PUTTY FRUIT.—One-half envelope gelatin, one-half dozen rolled state macaroons, one dozen marshmallows cut in small pieces, two tablespoonfuls chopped candied cherries, one-fourth pound blanched and chopped almonds, one cup sugar, one pint heavy cream, vanilla or sherry, one-fourth cup boiling water.

Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar. When mixture is cold add cream, beaten until stiff, almonds, macaroons, marshmallows and cherries; flavor. Turn into mold (first dipped in cold water) and chill. Remove, serve with angel cake.

This dessert may be made more elaborate by cutting the top from an angel cake and removing some of the inside then filling the cake with the mixture and replacing the top and covering it with frosting and garnishing with candied cherries or blanched almonds.

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE.—Four eggs, four tablespoonfuls sugar, four sticks sweet chocolate, one-fourth cup sweet butter, beat butter with chocolate. Cream yolks with sugar, then add melted chocolate, stir together on stove till hot, but not boiling, then add the stiffly beaten whites. Bake in pan of water 20 minutes. This has to be served as soon as done, with whipped cream.

STUFFED APPLES.—Hollow out the cores of good baking apples and stuff with a mixture of chopped dates, nuts and figs. Then bake. Serve with whipped cream and a bit of cherry on top of each. Serve with lady fingers.

Nut-Butter Salad Dressing.—Rub two rounded tablespoonfuls of nut butter smooth with two-thirds tablespoon cold water; add half teaspoon salt. Cook over the fire a minute, then add two tablespoonfuls lemon juice and let get very cold before using.

COMPATIBILITY OF VEGETABLES

If the reader who asks what vegetables are compatible with each other will go over a file of the paper he will find that the principles of proper combination have been explained and that sample menus have been given, including vegetables. All foods that are not of animal origin are vegetable, but it is presumed you mean green vegetables. The best of these are lettuce, cabbage, spinach and water cress, though none of them is necessary, since they contain nothing that is not found in milk, the cereals, nuts and fruits, or in bran alone. All of the green vegetables are comparatively compatible, as they differ little in their composition and mode of digestion, and they harmonize better with dry bread or toast than with meat. They may be eaten with potatoes, turnips or parsnips, though they are best eaten alone.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By
D. W. WATT

In the early history of the Barnum show they were exhibiting in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, when a tall, well built, sandy haired young man just out of his teens, stepped up to the front door and asked James A. Bailey the proprietor if there was any job around the show for a young man that didn't know anything about the business.

Mr. Bailey looked him over and he said, "Young man there had ought to be room for a man of that kind, for I think the show is well filled up with men that know all about the business, so that one of your kind might be useful."

This young man's name was Byron Rose. Mr. Bailey hired him and he left his home town that night never to return to make it his residence again.

Byron Rose filled different positions around the show for a time and later the wagon shows were put on rail he was made master of transportation. He always looked after the remodeling of the show in the winter at Bridgeport, Conn., which was the winter quarters of the Barnum show.

In re-fitting the show in the winter he was called to New York City more or less at this time and there made the acquaintance of the late W. H. H. MacLoon of this city. They became warm friends and whenever the bills announced the coming of the Barnum show to Janesville, both Byron Rose and Mr. MacLoon would look forward to a good visit over old times.

As soon as Byron Rose would get his trains unloaded in the morning he would find Mr. MacLoon and spend all his spare time visiting with him. At one time the Barnum show came into Janesville over the St. Paul road in three sections. Tom Croft was agent at this time and Tom was bewildered to know who he would do with so many cars and as to what he would do with them after they were unloaded.

As soon as Mr. Rose met him he said, "Mr. Croft all want you to do is to furnish the room and I'll do the rest. In less than an hour and a half I'll have everything off of the cars and out of the way." All this was done in less than the time and scarce by a loud word spoken.

Byron Rose hired and discharged all his own men, which meant about twenty-five razor backs, which meant the men who loaded and unloaded the train and eight or nine porters, one for each sleeping car. Each of the porters had a car to look after which they had to keep clean, look after shining all the shoes of the performers and managers, send out their washings, in fact look after everything pertaining to the cleanliness of the sleepers.

Mr. Rose inspected all the sleepers every day and if he found anything wrong he would call the porter and say to him, "Don't let this happen again," and if it did there was soon another man in his place. Byron Rose was seldom seen around the big show as all his interests at stake were at the railroad yards at all times. He stayed with the Barnum show about twenty-five years and in the meantime made a comfortable fortune and later retired to Bridgeport, Conn., where he owned a beautiful home.

He always carried a pad of his own complimentary tickets for the use of railroad men who pulled them over the road and the agents that he had to do business with in the different towns. Rose was a gentleman at all times and in his day was considered the best master of transportation that ever was in the business.

Mr. Rose died several years ago, leaving a widow but no children.

In all the years that I was with the Forepaugh show we always had a Pinkerton detective with the show to keep off pickpockets, sneak thieves house breakers, etc. During the years I was there, there were four or five different men and although Philadelphia, the winter quarters of the Forepaugh show was much nearer New York than Chicago, for some reason our detectives were always sent us from Chicago office.

There was one whom I wish to mention who was there for four or five seasons. His name was Arthur Wood and he had a wife and two children in Chicago. Wood had been with the Pinkerton Agency for many years and up to the time he came with the show his work had been largely away from Chicago.

He was one of the leaders of the Pinkerton men who tried at different times to capture the James boys and the Younger boys. He had also been across the water on business for them two or three times and many of these times his work meant day and night. When Arthur Wood was sent on to the show he was sent there as kind of a reward for his long and faithful services and as it was an easy job for a detective. With the kind of people he had to deal with he seldom made an arrest.

He contended it was not good to arrest those kind of people; the only thing that would keep them away from the show indefinitely was a lay-off in the hospital, and this is where they were invariably sent when Arthur Wood went through with them.

I have sat up late many a night and listened to Arthur Wood tell of his experience in the business in different parts of the country. One was when he was sent to the far west to look for a man who had committed murder down east several years before.

Wood went west, settled down in a little town and hired out to work in a livery stable. They thought the man they were after was in or near this place. It took Wood about four months to locate his man, but when he got him he writes and was ready to take him back east the entire town was greatly surprised for the man had been a respected citizen there for several years. But Arthur Wood seldom made a mistake and was sure he had his man before he made a move.

After being with the show four years the Pinkertons got him still an easier job, in Chicago where he could be at home. It was his business to go down into the city between one and two o'clock in the afternoon, take in all the principal hotels and cafes and see that there were no old time crooks or even new ones in the city. I seldom went to Chicago without looking up Arthur Wood for he was always one of my best friends and many times we would go to lunch together and visit over old experiences with the circus.

But after all the narrow escapes that Arthur Wood had had, he'd been in more than one hotly contested gun fight and had many scars which he carried to his grave, he was not to be killed with a gun. His work would usually keep him down in the city till anywhere between 12 and 2 o'clock at night and then he would start for his home on the west side.

It was between one and two at night that he was walking along on West Madison street. Some one who had been unloading coal in a big round hole in the sidewalk had neglected to put on the cover after they had gotten through and Arthur Wood walked into this hole and there met his death. He received injuries from this fall from which he died in a few days. There were but few if any of the older men with the Pinkerton Detective Agency that stood as high as Arthur Wood.

Wood and I were talking in the railroad yards at Indianapolis, Ind., after the show one night when one of the fast trains from the east came in and a man jumped from the platform to the ground on the opposite side to the depot. Wood recognized him in a second and grabbed for him, but the man jumped to one side and shot at Wood and disappeared in the darkness. After it was over Wood said to me, "There is one of the most desperate characters in the country and the Pinkertons have wanted him for a long time. If I ever see him again I will get him without warning."

A couple of years later I walked in to the office of the Myers House and there stood this same man Kelly. He was registered but not under the name of Kelly. He knew me in a second and beckoned me to one side and he said, "Dave I'm not here under the name of Kelly. I wish would not mention my being here." I said to him, "Kelly, I don't think your business and mine will conflict in any way. You tend to your business and I'll tend to mine."

I was ready to make any compromise that suited him. But the eagle eye of John Hogan had rested on Kelly two or three different times and while Hogan had no idea who he was or that he was wanted, especially anywhere he made up his mind after he was an undesirable citizen and called at his room one day and said, "I want you to pack up and get out of town."

Kelly knew that he meant it and he said to him, "All right sir. When can I get a train for Chicago?" Hogan said, "I don't care where the train is going. You get the first one. If you don't leave town immediately I will shut you up long enough to find out your record." And Kelly was not long in getting to the depot and leaving town.

But the Pinkerton men were always on the look-out for Kelly and a year or two later one of the men ran across him in Detroit, Michigan and shot him dead.

This ended the career of one notorious crook who saw fit at one time to at least settle down in Janesville and look the lay of the land over and I never heard that anybody knew what his object was in coming to Janesville.

Actual Photographs of Balkan War Scenes

TOP PICTURE—Greek Army Watching 30,000 Turkish Prisoners Outside of City of Salonika.

BOTTOM PICTURE—Greek Soldiers Watching Their Prisoners on Field of Ostruc, Macedonia. Photographs Sent by John Milton of This City.

John Milton, the Janesville man, a native of Greece, who left last fall for Athens to join his countrymen in their fight on the Ottoman government, has sent to the Gazette three photographs of war scenes which are reproduced above. These are the first actual photographs showing the armies in the field that have been received in Janesville and are rare views. One side of some of the pictures published in some of the illustrated weekly journals, no newspaper in the country has had such excellent pictures of actual scenes as these.

Two of the pictures show the Greek soldiers guarding their Turkish prisoners. In both of these can be seen the white tents of armies gleaming in the bright sunlight. The type of the Greek soldiers standing guard with guns in hand can be noted while the character of the Turkish prisoners shown is an equally interesting study. The pictures also show the topography of the country in some detail. The long sloping plains of Macedonia with the rounded hills in the background have been the scene of much of the fighting especially between the Greeks and the Turks.

The battle scene is especially unique. In the foreground is a dead horse which has evidently been ridden by a shell. A group of officers of the Greek army are standing in attention to the photographer. The artillery can be seen stationed along the plain ready for the attack. The battle was one of the fights before the city of Salonika.

Mr. Milton is now enlisted in the Greek army and engaged in guarding and transporting the Turkish prisoners. In the letter accompanying the photographs which were sent from Athens, he says: "I am transporting prisoners of war and have a good job. The weather is beautiful. Everything is green and nice. We think the trouble will be over by Christmas with a glorious victory for the Grecian army. Regards to the people of Janesville." Mr. Milton wrote on Dec. 12.

On the request of Mr. Milton the above illustration will be sent to the Greek newspaper which is published at 38 West Ontario street, Chicago.

Editor of the Gazette:
Just at this time when the question of the recall of our city officials is in every one's thoughts will you not print the following item from Superior which tells of the proposed recall of the Mayor of that city for "sufficient reasons," that he is charged with not enforcing the state laws and city ordinances. Down here in Janesville, it appears to be a crime to enforce these laws and recall element is seeking to oust men who dared to do it.

Superior, Wis., Jan. 3.—Petitions seeking to effect the recall of Mayor Joseph S. Konkle have been prepared and, according to statements made on Friday, will be placed in circulation next week.

The principal charge is that he has failed to enforce state and city laws affecting the social evil, and it is understood that the Rev. Harry Milford, former superintendent of the Lake Superior mission is back of the movement.

He counts upon the support of the socialists. At the primary preceding the election when Mayor Konkle ran third in a field of five, can third in a field of five.

BABY IN GREAT MISERY WITH RASH

On Face. Spread Until Nearly All Over Body. Crust on Head. Hair Fell Out. Itch Terrible. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Monroe, Wis.—"When my baby was six weeks old there came a rash on his face which finally spread until it got nearly all over his body. It formed a crust on his head, hair fell out and the itch was terrible. When he would scratch the crust the water would ooze out in big drops. On face and body it was in a dry form and would scale off. He was in great misery and at nights I would lay awake holding his hands so that he could not scratch and disfigure himself. I tried simple remedies at first, then got medicine, but it did no good. Finally a friend suggested Cuticura Remedies, so I sent for a sample to see what they would do, what to my surprise after a few applications I could see an improvement, and he would rest better. I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap and before I had them half used my baby was cured. His head is now covered with a luxuriant growth of hair and his complexion is admired by everybody and has no disfigurements. I hope other mothers will profit by my experience and not be worn out with poor babies who are tortured with skin and scalp afflictions." (Signed) Mrs. Annie Saunders, Sept. 29, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Sold by dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

FORTY PLAYGROUNDS OPENED THIS YEAR

Report of Secretary Braucher of Playground Association Shows Encouraging Growth

Notable growth in the number of public playgrounds, in the number of cities using their school-houses as social centers, and great development of the organized play movement, in every respect is reported by H. S. Braucher, Secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

Forty cities report that supervised playgrounds were opened for the first time during the past year.

Forty-eight cities report that they are using their school-houses as recreation centers.

During the year the number of cities having playground commissions increased from 24 to 37.

Movements have been started in Cleveland, Ohio, and Atlanta, Georgia, looking to the expenditure of a million dollars each for public recreation.

A bond issue of $75,000 for playgrounds was recently authorized in San Diego, California, by a vote of the people, the school board at Milwaukee, Wis., has been given the power to levy a special tax of 2-10 of a mill for evening recreation centers.

The City Council of Portland, Oregon, has authorized placing before the people a bond issue of two millions of dollars for playgrounds, recreation centers and parks.

Oakland, California, by vote of the people authorized a half million for school playgrounds and a two million dollar bond issue for school buildings which can be used for community purposes.

Tacoma, Wash., June 4, votes on a half million dollar bond issue for parks, playgrounds and recreation centers.

In nineteen cities bond issues for recreation centers were authorized to the amount of $4,445,000. Two and three quarter million dollars were expended during the year for administration of playgrounds.

Twenty-five cities in twelve different states received donated playgrounds during the year.

INAUGURATE NEW SYSTEM OF INDEXING CRIMINALS
IN CITY OF ROCKFORD

Every Man Arrested on a Criminal Charge Will be Booked in Index System—Circulars Filed.

Beginning the first of the year a new system of identification was inaugurated at the Rockford police headquarters.

Chief Burgess has been working on the system for several months and has sent his secretary to several of the larger cities to investigate the system in use there.

As the result of his observations and study a simple system of card indexing has been planned in which will be kept the records of all criminals coming to the notice of the local police.

Not only will the records of local law violators be preserved, but also all criminals received from other cities relative to men wanted and escaped prisoners will be transferred to the card index system for reference.

All criminals will be indexed in three ways. First, their names and aliases, then the cities in which they are wanted, and last by description.

Each one of these cards will bear a number corresponding with the card bearing the original data. A follow-up system of information will also be carried out. This will apply to warnings and descriptions received of the same man wanted at different places.

Patrolmen have been instructed relative to booking prisoners and each time one is brought to headquarters as much of his history as possible will be secured and put into the index system for future reference.

Through the use of the new system the members of the police department will at all times be in touch with everyone in the city who is criminally inclined. If a robbery is made, the police can turn to the index containing the list of those found guilty of that kind of crime and by a process of elimination fasten it upon the probable guilty and by still further elimination find the guilty.

TO PROVIDE NEW QUARTERS FOR RACINE POLICE FORCE

Probation Offices and Detention Quarters Included—Pay of Firemen Increased.

Racine is to have a modern police station and also quarters for a probation offices and detention quarters as the common council by a unanimous vote set aside the amount of $7,000 for the improvement and instructed the board of public works to have Guiller, and Funston, architects, prepare plans for the new quarters, which will be in the east end of the city hall, and to advertise for bids for the work, and as soon as the contract is awarded work on the improvement is to begin and completed before early spring.

Members of the Racine fire department below the rank of assistant fire marshal will receive increases in salaries next year as the common council last evening adopted an ordinance increasing the salaries of captains, hosemen, truckmen and drivers $5 per month. In the future captains of fire companies will receive $50 per month, and lieutenants $80 per month. The electrician of the department will receive $90 per month. During the first year of service hosemen, truckmen and drivers will receive $70 per month and during the second year $75 per month, but during the third year and after will receive $80 per month—Racine Journal-News.

BUY SITE OF BATTLE FOR A ZULU MISSION

Adventists Purchase Mountain at Natal, South Africa According to Information Received by Local Elder.

Spion Kop, the mountain just outside the city of Ladysmith, Natal, South Africa, where the most deadly battle between the Boers and British was fought in 1900, has been purchased by the Seventh Day Adventists and a mission farm where the Zulus will be educated and Christianized.

The mission will be established on it, according to information just received by Elder N. J. Mikkelsen of the local Seventh Day Adventist church, from the General Conference, the governing body of denomination, which has its headquarters in Washington, D. C. The property was purchased by Mr. F. B. Armitage, who, before going to South Africa as a missionary, was an evangelist in this country.

Spion Kop comprises 2,000 acres, and, according to Mr. Armitage, a school will be established there with a number of natives, who have accepted the teachings of Christianity, forming a nucleus from whom teachers will be chosen. Spion Kop is about 18 miles from Ladysmith which became famous through the Boer war, and it was on this peak on January 24, 1900, that the deadliest battle of the conflict between the British and Boers was fought.

In describing the mountain the missionary says: "On the southwestern side there are beautiful, but precipitous slopes while at the back of the mountain there is a wide plateau which slopes gradually toward the town. On this plateau the Boers were strongly entrenched. The British general gave command to seize the hill from the precipice, with the result that his forces were mowed down like the wheat of the field. However the hill was finally captured by the British, and today the boundaries of the farm are marked by monuments that have been erected in memory of the British soldiers who were willing to spill their blood for the glory of their king. What an example of fidelity to the children of God, the soldiers of the Kings of Kings."

Mr. Armitage says the mountain was purchased only after he had traversed the country, seeking for a suitable farm for the establishment of the mission. The writer stated that several Zulus have already accepted the teachings of Christianity, and these will work with the missionaries towards instructing other natives in the way of salvation.

It is the plan of the missionaries to make the farm self-supporting. All the slopes are capable of cultivation, and along the Tugela river is a belt of fine alluvial soil.

The denomination has missionaries in ten countries of Africa, the force numbering 270. It has 1041 adherents, with 5055 in the various schools conducted by it. The Adventists believe Christ will return to earth in this generation, and are as firm in their belief that the gospel must be preached to the natives of this country, as well as to the natives of other countries, before He can come; hence their missionary zeal.

TRAINING SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Ruth Graham of Janesville visited her friend, Marcia Lovelace, at the school on Friday.

All but two of the training school students are in their places again and at work.

The school is in session this week Saturday.

The first semester closes on January 17, and the second semester begins on Monday, January 20th.

The schedule for observation and practice is being made out and will go into effect on January 20.

Eighteen young women will begin their observation and practice work in the grades of the Jefferson school in a few weeks.

The next program of the Philomathean will consist of stories being told by all the members of the society.

Miss Florence McKinnon, assisted the principal in doing a good deal of typewriting and mimeograph work during the vacation.

W. E. Larson, state inspector of rural schools, will deliver the commencement address this year. Mr. Larson will speak on the subject, "The Country Teacher Serving the Community."

The principal is adding more exhibits to our list of illustrative equipment. The latest acquisition is an exhibit showing the processes of chocolate. There are several bottles of specimens, and the educational value of such an exhibit is unquestioned.

A number of copies of the report of the State Board of Public Affairs on Rural Schools in Wisconsin have been secured by the school and will be used in the school management class.

The new teacher to assist during the time of our practice teaching will begin her duties on February 3rd.

Many of the students are interested in reading the New Educational History of Wisconsin, recently off the press.

The geography class have been interested in locating all of the training schools upon maps of the state.

The state normal schools were also placed, as well as all of the institutions under the management of the State Board of Control.

Doctor Winslip says that "Anything may be practical and not be educational, but nothing is likely to be educational that is not practical."

Minnesota has available $1,200,000 for the extension of agriculture in rural districts. The bankers did it, and they are not philanthropists. They see that education pays.

With an extra teacher we expect to do more in the way of rehearsals for rhetorical program.

How is this for a mixed metaphor? "We pursue the shadow, the bubble bursts, and leaves the ashes in our hands."

MOLLY McDONALD

A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

"We'll try, out here, at least. Even if the dream doesn't last long, it will be pleasant to remember."
"You do not think it will last, then?"
He shook his head.

"I would be a fool to hope; I have been in the army too long."
They were still for a minute, the girl's fingers toying with the flap of the haversack, her eyes gazing across the river. He thought they were misty.

"I am sorry you are so prejudiced," she said at last slowly, "for I am not like that at all. I am going to be as good as a friend because he is in the ranks. I shall be the more proud. What is your full name?"
He passed his hand over his hair, and laughed.

"They call me 'Brick' Hamlin—a subtle reference to this crown of glory."

"But it isn't red," she insisted swiftly. "Only it shows a little bright with the sun on it, and I am not going to call you that. I don't like nicknames. What did they call you before you went into the army?"

"The sergeant bent his head, and then lifted his gray eyes to the girl's face."

"I had almost forgotten," he confessed, "but I'll tell you—David Carter Hamlin; there, you have all of it—my mother called me Dave—could you, once?"

"Could I?" laughingly. "Why, of course; now, Dave, we will have breakfast."

"And I am quite ready for it—Molly."

The girl's cheeks reddened, but their eyes met, and both laughed.

CHAPTER XI.

A Remembrance of the Past.

Molly must have had Miss McDonald in mind when he had stocked up with food at Fort Dodge, and had therefore chosen all the delicacies to be found at that frontier post. These were not extensive, consisting largely of canned goods, which, nevertheless, made a brave show, and were clearly enough not the ordinary fare of the border. Hamlin had to smile at the array, but Molly handled each article almost with reverence, tears dimming her eyes in memory.

"He bought these for me," she said softly, and looking across the river, "I wish I knew where that horse I turned loose last night has drifted to; into the bluffs, probably, where the grass is green. He would be of some help just now. Try this, Miss McDonald, for lack of something better. I yearn for ham and coffee, but hardly dare build a fire yet. The smoke would be seen for miles away."

"If we were across the river we could use the stage fire."

"Yes, but there is a wide river flowing between, and I'm afraid of that trip," noting the expression of her face. "It will be easy enough to cross back by daylight, now that I know where the danger spots are."

"I was not so terribly afraid last night; I hardly had time to realize what was being done, did you?"

"Well, yes; it was risky business. Awfully treacherous bottom and I was trusting to good luck."

The sergeant ate heartily, speaking occasionally so as to divert his mind, but for the most part, busily thinking and endeavoring to decide his next move. He sat facing the river, continually lifting his head to scan the opposite shore. There was probably, a scouting detail somewhere near at hand, alerted by the report of the fleeing stage crew, or else a detachment tracking Roman Nose's warriors across those plains extending to the north. The latter contingency was the more probable, judging from the Indians' flight, and his own knowledge of the small reserve force left at Dodge. Besides, ride as they might those two fleeing cowards they yesterday could hardly have yet reached that shelter of safety and might not confess the truth of their desertion even when they did arrive.

A pursuing force was the only real hope for escaping the necessity of a hard tramp back over the trail. Well, the girl looked fit, and he glanced toward her appreciatively.

In spite of the sad experiences of the past night she was a pleasant spectacle, her eyes bright with excitement, her cheeks flushed under the morning sun which flecked her dark, disordered hair with odd color. Her was a winsome face, with smiling lips, and frank good nature in its contour. He was surprised to note how fresh and well she looked.

"Are you tired?"

"Not very. It seems more as though I had dreamed all this than actually passed through the experience. Perhaps when I do realize, the reaction will set in. But now I am strong, and—and not at all frightened."

"Nor hungry?"

"It is hard to eat, but I am often that way." Her hand strayed to the empty haversack, and she turned it carelessly over, where it lay beside her on the sand. "Why, this is an old Confederate sack, isn't it? I hadn't noticed before; see, 'C. S. A.' is on the flap."

"So it is; perhaps Moylean served in the south."

"I think not. I am sure this was never his, for he bought it at Dodge. I remember he told me he would have to find something to carry our lunch in." She pushed the flap farther back, then held it up to the sunlight. "There are some other letters, but they are hardly decipherable. I cannot read the first line at all, but the second is somewhat plainer—'Fourth Texas Infantry.'"

Hamlin reached out his hand swiftly, and grasped the haversack, forgetting everything else in suddenly aroused interest. The girl, surprised, stared up into his face, as he closely studied the faded inscription, his face expressing unfeigned amazement.

"Good God!" he ejaculated breathlessly. "It was Gene's. What can this mean?"

"You—you knew the soldier?"

"Knew him? Yes," speaking almost unconsciously, his incredulous eyes still on the inscription, as though fearful it might vanish. "That man was either my best friend, or my worst enemy; under heaven, I know not which. Why, it is like a miracle, the finding of this bag out here in the desert. It is the clue I have been searching after for nearly five years."

He seemed to pull himself together with an effort, realizing her presence. "Excuse me, Miss McDonald, but this thing knocked me silly. I hardly knew what I was saying."

"It means much to you? To your life?"

"Everything, if I can only trace it back, and thus discover the present whereabouts of the original owner."

"Whereabouts of the original owner?"

He bowed his head, now looking frankly at her.

"Would you mind telling me your rank?"

"I became Captain of 'B' Company after the fight at Chancellorsville; we served in Virginia under Massé Robert, and lost every commissioned officer in that affair." He hesitated to go on, but she prompted him by a question:

"And then what? What was it that happened? Don't be afraid to tell me."

"Nothing until the day we fought at Fisher's Hill," he said slowly. "Then I was dismissed from the service—for cowardice."

"Cowardice!" repeating the word in quick protest. "Why, how could that be? Surely your courage had been sufficiently tested before?"

"Cowardice, and disobedience of orders," he repeated dully, "after I had been under fire almost night and day for three years; after I had risen from the ranks and commanded the regiment."

"And you had no defence?"

"No; at least, none I could use; this man might have saved me, but he did not, and I never knew why."

"Who was he?"

"My senior captain, detailed on Early's staff; he brought me the orders verbally I was afterwards accused of disobeying. I was temporarily in command of the regiment that day with rank as major. There was a mistake somewhere, and we were horribly cut up, and a number taken prisoner. It was my word against his, and—and he lied."

She took the haversack from him, studying the scarcely legible inscription.

"E. L. F. Are those the letters?"

"Yes; they stand for Eugene Le Fevre; he was of French descent, his home in New Orleans."

"You knew him well?"

"I thought so; we were at camp together and afterwards in the army."

She looked across at him again, touched by the tender echo of his voice; then leaned forward and placed one hand upon his.

"You have not spoken about this for a long while, have you?"

"No," his eyes lighting up pleasantly, "hardly thought of it, except some times alone at night. The memory made me savage, and all my efforts to ascertain the truth have proven useless."

"That is why you enlisted?"

"Largely; there is no better place to hide one's past than in the ranks out here on the plains. I—I could not remain at home with that disgrace hanging over me."

"You must tell me all about it."

Her head lifted suddenly as she gazed out across the river, shading her eyes. "Why, what are those?"

she exclaimed eagerly, "there, moving on the bluffs opposite?"

His glance swept to the northward, and he was as instantly the soldier again. Far away on the upper plateau, clearly outlined against the blue of the distant sky, appeared a number of dark figures. For a moment he believed them buffaloes, but in another instant decided instead they were horsemen riding two by two.

"Get down lower, Miss McDonald," he commanded. "Now we can see, and not be seen. They must be cavalrymen, the way they ride, but we can take no chances."

They watched the black specks pass east to where the bluff creaked in toward the river. It was from there those distant riders first observed the dim spiral of smoke still curling up from the burning stage, for they halted, bunching together, and then disappeared slowly down a gash in the side of the hill. Emerging on the lower flat they turned in the direction of the fire, spurring their horses into a swift trot. There was no longer any doubt of their being troopers, and Hamlin stood upright on the sand hummock waving his hat. They were gathered about the fire, a few dismounted beside the dead bodies, before his signal was observed. Then a field glass flashed in the sunlight, and three or four of the party rode down to the bank of the river. One of these, the glasses still held in his hand, his horses, hoofs in the water, shouted across the stream.

"Who are you over there?"

"White people," answered Hamlin, using his hands for trumpet. "We escaped from the stage last night. I am a sergeant, Seventh Cavalry, and the lady with me is the daughter of Major McDonald at Fort Devere."

"How did you get across?"

"Waded in the dark; there is good bottom. Send a man over with a couple of horses."

The officer turned and spoke to the others grouped beside him; then raised his voice again.

"Are you sure there is no quicksand?"

"None to hurt; come straight over the end of that sand spit, and then swerve about a dozen feet to the right to keep out of a hole. The water won't go to a horse's belly. Try it, Wasson, you ought to know Hamlin, ain't you?"

"A good guess, Sam; come on."

Two troopers left their saddles, and the third man, the one answering the last hail, gathered the reins in one hand, and spurred his horse confidently into the brown water. Following the Sergeant's shouted directions, the three animals plunged forward and came dripping up the low sand bank. The rider, a sallow-faced man clad in rough corduroy and moccasins with dark, arrogant eyes, and prominent chin.

"You are a sergeant of the Seventh, you said," he began brusquely. "What were you doing here?"

"My troop is stationed at Fort Union," was the quiet response, "I carried despatches to Devere, and while there was requested by Major McDonald to intercept his daughter and turn her back."

"Were you subject to Major McDonald's orders?"

"It was not an order, but a request."

"Oh, indeed; a mere pleasure excursion."

"It has hardly turned out that way, sir, and conditions seemed to justify my action."

"That is for others to determine. When was the attack made?"

"Just before sundown last evening. The driver and guard escaped on the lead horses, and the wheelers ran away, wrecking the coach."

"There were four passengers?"

"Yes; we fought them off until after dark, although the Mexican was killed by the first fire. I don't know when the other man got hit."

"Who were they?"

"Gonzales ran a high-ball game at Santa Fe; the other, Moylean, was post-sutler at Fort Mercer."

"How many Indians? Who were they?"

CHAPTER XII.

The Parting.

They recrossed the stream carefully, the horses restless and hard to control in the current, the men riding on either side, grasping the bit of the girl's mount. Others had joined the little squad of troopers on the bank, and welcomed her with a cheer. The Lieutenant dismounted. At sight of the girl's face he whipped off his hat, and came forward.

"Miss McDonald," he said, pleasantly greeting her, "I am Lieutenant Gaskins, and I have met your father—of the Sixth Infantry, is he not? So glad to be of service, you know. You were in the stage, I understand; a most remarkable escape."

"I owe it all to Sergeant Hamlin," she replied, turning to glance toward the latter. "He bore me away unconscious in his arms. Indeed, I scarcely realized what happened. Do you know anything regarding my father?"

"Oh, yes, I can put your mind at ease so far as he is concerned. I presume you were endeavoring to reach his post when this unfortunate affair occurred."

"Yes."

"Sheridan has ordered Devere abandoned for the present, and the major's troops are to return to Dodge. No doubt we shall be in the field within a week or two. But we can cultivate acquaintance later; now I must straighten out this affair." He bowed again, and turned stiffly toward Hamlin, who had dismounted, his manner instantly changing. He was a short, heavily built man, cleanly shaven, with dark, arrogant eyes, and prominent chin.

"You are a sergeant of the Seventh, you said," he began brusquely. "What were you doing here?"

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, January 4, 1873. Marriages Recorded. Documents on file at the office of the registrar of deeds show that during the year 1872 three hundred and fifty-three marriages were recorded. It was one of the best years for marrying that Rock County has experienced.

Capt. Randall on the War Path. A San Francisco dispatch on the subject of the Indian war, in eastern Arizona, says that the force under Captain George Randall, of this city, has recently had several engagements in Santo Basin, during which they have killed twenty-five warriors and captured many prisoners.

Brief Items. The law term of the circuit court is being held in the clerk's office instead of the court room.

An adjourned session of the board of supervisors will convene at the clerk's office on Tuesday next.

Mrs. Hunt's school will be opened one week from next Monday, the 13th. Applications can be made at her rooms, No. 20 Pleasant street.

Janitor Hawley has succeeded in getting through the cold snap without permitting the steam pipes in the court house to freeze, though it has required close attention on his part.

UNCLE WALT

The Post Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

The women keep after their rights; their husbands, unfortunate wights, are scrubbing the floors and washing the doors, and herding the babies at night. The women still go to the club; their husbands are eating stale grub, and sweeping the stairs and dusting the chairs, and doing their stunts at the tub. On juries the women now sit, while lawyers throw fit after fit, their husbands in a y take up the burden and bake, and darn the old stockings, and knit. The women are running for snaps, like other political chaps; their husbands have knives for the campaigning wives, which they'll use at elections—perhaps. The dames are the equals of men; they've said it again and again; they've laid down the law with the hoof and the jaw, the dornick and bludgeon and pen. Professions the women invade; you run against matron or maid in the office and store, in the shop evermore, assertive, serene, unafraid. But you don't see the girls laying brick, or sweating around with a pick, and they don't seem to itch for a job in the ditch, along with Tom, Harry and Dick. Oh, the men will remain upon guard where the work is both dirty and hard, while the dizzy old dames play the masculine games and talk of their rights by the yard.

IF TOMORROW IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.

Beware of accidents. You will have a busy and eventful year and the signs are favorable, but the measure of your good fortune will depend on your strength and judgment. Among those dear to you, some illness will occur.

Those born Sunday, January 5, will be quick to learn and to act, and from many mishaps will, in time, learn to act reasonably. They will gain friends easily and if well trained will keep them. Their careers will be successful. These children should be carefully taught the danger of fire, as they are especially liable to injury from this source.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

THIRTY-TWO BELLS, AHoy!

"The lilacs bloomed across the sea, And wafted scents from her to me; 'Ye gods!' I cried, 'can this thing be?'"

She leaned over the ship's rail, her eyes on the water, her nose on the polished wood. The handsome count with the steel-blue mustaches, the personage whom the entire ship had been regarding with awe, was walking towards her. Did he mean to speak? They had not even been introduced.

Her heart beat so fiercely that a sea gull which was about to pluck a cherry off her natty seaboard hat flew off in fright.

Ab, he has hesitated, paused and stopped! Where? Right smack in front of her.

"Mademoiselle," he said softly, "I could not wait longer to meet you. Will you come under the mazzetop gulling sail and hear what I have to say?"

Without a sound she did not answer him, but followed to the rendezvous he had mentioned. Her heart was palpitating so fiercely that the sea gull, on his way back again, turned once more and disappeared forever from sight.

"Mademoiselle," he whispered, "will you marry me and be the Countess La Pompon?"

A soft breeze blew over the boat and hardened a little. She——awoke with a start and rubbed her eyes with two knuckles and a sigh. It was her thirty-second birthday and thirty-two is freezing point.

Way of the Truly Great.

It is easy in this world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after one's own; but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.—Emerson.

You Know the Kind.

"What sort of a chap in Wombat to camp with?" "He's one of those fellows who always takes down a mandolin about the time it's up to somebody to get busy with the frying pan."

Drives Off A Terror.

The chief executioner of death in the winter and spring months is pneumonia. Its advance agents are colds and grip. In any attack by one of these maladies no time should be lost in taking the best medicine obtainable to drive it off. Countless thousands have found this to be Dr. King's New Discovery. "My husband believes it has kept him from having pneumonia three or four times," writes Mrs. George W. Place, Rawsonville, Vt., "and for coughs, colds and croup we have never found its equal." Guaranteed for all bronchial affections. Price 50 cts. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at People's Drug Co.

Janesville People Use BRONCHINE

On Saturday, Dec. 28 1912, thirty different people came in our store and purchased one bottle of Baker's Bronchine.

Think it over. This is cough, cold and pneumonia weather. BRONCHINE prevents and cures.

INVESTMENTS

Of the mortgages we have sold a number matured in 1912. They were all paid promptly. The 1912 interest on every loan we have sold was also paid promptly and without any further bother or expense to the purchaser than to hand us the interest coupon for collection. This is the same experience we have had with these securities for the last twelve years. Our customers have found everything exactly as represented and every one has been satisfied.

We have on hand for sale bonds and mortgages ranging in size from $100.00 up to $5,000.00, all of which we know are absolutely secure.
